Flood Conditions Worry Wind-Torn Old South

WEATHER VERY CHECKERED IN THE WEST, MIDDLE WEST

FOG BLANKET LAID OVER THE ENTIRE ATLANTIC COAST

THE CANADIAN PRAIRIES HAVE SLEET, MIDDLE WEST INDIAN SUMMER

(By United Press)

Flood conditions threatening the wind-torn south added today to the checkered weather conditions which laid a fog blanket over the Atlantic coast, coated the far west and Canadian prairies with sleet, and sent the middle west a second Indian summer.

Rivers were rising in Florida, Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina after heavy rains, at Tallahassee, Fla., where ten inches of rain fell in 20 hours, streets were under water.

The full extent of a tornado in Louisiana Saturday night became known. Relief workers counted seven dead, scores injured, 500 homeless, and a half a million dollars damage.

A recurrence of the high winds that swept Louisiana occurred in Alabama and Georgia, destroying and damaging homes, particularly at Mobile and Alton, Ala., and Dawson, Ga.

Varied weather from rain to sleet and snow, blocked highways in many parts of Colorado, Wyoming and Utah, the Sierra Nevada Mountains and the Canadian west, while skies cleared on the Pacific coast after heavy rains.

The middle west and east experienced mild temperatures, but along the Atlantic coast, a heavy fog hampered navigation, causing two vessels to run aground off Block Island. Their crews were rescued.

Denver, Nov. 18. — Snow covered many sections of the Rocky Mountain region today and freezing or sub-freezing temperatures were general throughout the area.

Beginning with heavy rains, the precipitation turned to sleet and then to snow in parts of Wyoming, Colorado and Utah. Traffic was crippled in many sections and a few roads were reported blocked by snow drifts.

On the west coast, the weather was reported clearing after the first heavy rain of the season. In the Sierra Nevada Mountains, roads were blocked by snows. More rain was predicted for northwest California today.

Chicago, Nov. 18. — While awaiting a storm which the weather bureau predicted might sweep in from Canada before the end of the week, Chicagoans enjoyed today weather that was almost spring like.

Reports from the north were that severe sleet and snow storms were general throughout Canada and that some snow had fallen along the northern border of the United States.

The weather bureau predicted the Canadian storm might extend into the midwestern United States the latter part of this week, but said warm weather probably would continue at least until after Wednesday.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 18. — Cessation of rains for a day, followed by resumption of conditions which have prevailed in the southeast for the past week may be expected, C. F. Vonherrmann, government weather forecaster of Atlanta, announced today.

Conditions approaching flood stage — but nothing yet serious — prevail on the Chattahoochee and Apalachicola rivers in Georgia and west Florida and a moderate rise has occurred in the Flint river, the forecaster reported.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 18. — Crews of linemen continued the restoration of communications in Manitoba today. First direct wire contact with the United States was restored after a 24-hour tie-up due to the sleet storm which snapped wires. Damage was confined largely to telephone and telegraph and power wires.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 18. — A second snow and sleet storm today appeared headed for the northwest, the U. S. weather bureau reported.

Linemen, meanwhile, continued to clear away the wreckage left by Sunday's storm. Thousands of poles and miles of wires were being renovated after they were pulled down by the heavy weight of ice.

Wire communication with Winnipeg and Manitoba from northwest points was resumed today after a 24-hour break.

Practically no snow has fallen in the northwest for the last 24 hours but a new storm was expected tonight, the weather bureau said.

Temperatures were lower in Minnesota and the Dakotas today with Williston, N. D., the coldest spot with 10 degrees. St. Paul had 35, Duluth 32 and Moorhead 26.

The forecast was, "increasing cloudiness; Wednesday rain, turning to snow and colder."

TOLL OF DEER HUNTER DEATHS MOUNTS TO SIX

St. Paul, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — With Minnesota's ten day deer hunting season in its fourth day, the toll of deaths mounted to six today — the number fatalities for the entire 1928 season.

Theodore Martinelli, 47, was found shot to death in upper St. Louis county. Apparently he had been dead for some time and was killed by another hunter who did not know that he had killed the victim.

36 OF CREW MAROONED ON FREIGHTER

HARRY BOWEN RUNS AGROUND OFF MONTAUK POINT, NEW YORK

IMPENETRABLE FOG ALONG ENTIRE ATLANTIC SEABOARD HANDICAPPED VESSEL

New York, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Thirty-six members of the crew of the freighter Harry Bowen were marooned today on their vessel, which ran hard aground yesterday off Montauk Point.

The Bowen, a 3,522-ton ship, was one of three which grounded off New York yesterday in the impenetrable fog that veiled the entire Atlantic seaboard. The Petrel, a fishing trawler, went on the rocks off Block Island, with 23 fishermen aboard and later in the day the Bowen ran aground. The Tattler, a fishing steamer, ran ashore while proceeding to the aid of the Bowen in response to her calls for help.

The crews of the Petrel and the Tattler were taken off by coast guard boats, but the heavy swell prevented rescue craft from coming alongside the Harry Bowen. Coast guard officials announced their intention of taking off the crew of the Bowen today unless it should prove possible to get the ship off the rocks. No immediate fear was felt for the safety of the 36 men aboard.

The 23 fishermen on the Petrel were in desperate straits when the coast guard crew of the life-saving station at Shoreham, L. I., found the ship a quarter of a mile offshore and took off the men. The engine room and boiler room were flooded, and the crew had been clinging to the rigging for hours, with icy waves dashing over them. Nine were at the point of exhaustion.

JOHN FLIGLEMAN, 75, MINNEAPOLIS' 75TH TRAFFIC VICTIM

Minneapolis, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — John Fligleman, 75, was listed today as Minneapolis' 75th traffic victim of the year when he died of injuries received when an automobile struck him as he was crossing the street near his home last night. Fligleman's death was the second traffic fatality of the day. Mrs. Julius Samuelson, Minneapolis, died earlier from injuries received on Nov. 7.

TWO INSURANCE COMPANIES MERGE

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Merging of the Atlas-Republic Insurance Co. of Campbellsville, Ky., and the Dixie Life and Accident Insurance Co. of Nashville, was announced here today by Cury Harris, president of the combined company, which will be known as the Dixie-Atlas-Republic Insurance Co.

Home offices of the new combined company will be in Nashville and the capital stock will be increased to $500,000, Harris said. The company will operate in Kentucky, Alabama, Georgia, West Virginia and Tennessee.

SEARCH FOR PLANE THAT CRASHED IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — A search by air and land was started today for a northbound Pacific Air Transport plane that apparently crashed early this morning in the rough country near Lebec.

Seven planes left the United Airport field at Burbank shortly after 10:30 a. m. to fly over the district in the hope of spotting the place where the craft, carrying three persons, was forced down.

Earlier automobile searching parties left Glendale and Burbank and most of the residents of Lebec turned out to aid in the hunt for the plane.

More ships are to be added to the air searching party in event the missing craft is not sighted before noon, it was said.

Administration Leaders Alarmed By Trend of Progressives Toward a Special Session

2 PROJECTS ARE UNDER WAY TO BLOCK INSURGENTS

DEMAND FOR FURTHER FARM RELIEF BELIEVED INCENTIVE FOR SESSION

CHAIRMAN McNARY IS CONFERRING WITH LEADERS ABOUT AGRICULTURE

By LYLE C. WILSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 18. — Administration leaders are alarmed by progressive republican leanings toward a special session of the seventy-second congress and today have two projects under way to block any insurgent move.

Regular republican strategy is predicted on the belief the demand for further farm relief is the most powerful of all incentives for an extra session after March 4. This conclusion is understood to have contributed to the farm board's decision to send the grain stabilization corporation back to the wheat market with orders to buy.

The second movement to head off farm relief proposals was made by Chairman McNary of the senate agriculture committee. The day after McNary conferred with President Hoover and announced a legislative program which excluded farm relief and all else but appropriation bills from the short session, the senators called his committee to meet here on Nov. 25. He invited L. J. Tabon, master of the National Grange; C. E. Huff, of the Farmer's Union; and S. H. Thompson, of the American Farm Bureau, to meet with the committee.

McNary said in his telegraphic invitation he believed the meeting "probably would determine whether we should press forward with additional legislation." He described the situation of American farmers as "distressful."

If this meeting should decide against further farm legislation at this time, the administration at least would have the weight of national opposition to introducing so controversial a matter into the short session. If the decision were the other way, the administration could advance its own program in opposition to the export debenture scheme of disposing of farm surpluses.

The idea is to get support of the three big industrial organizations for it such a move seems appropriate after the conference.

In effect, this is the administration's reply to the threat of progressive republicans to insist upon further farm relief this winter. Senator Borah, republican, Iowa, refused to speak for his progressive colleagues until he has had an opportunity to confer with them, but he says he will introduce the export debenture proposal. Without committing himself regarding a short session, Borah says there is not time in the three months to which the expiring congress is restricted to dispose of urgent legislation.

Progressives and many democrats class among the urgent matters the Muscle Shoals bill, anti-injunction legislation, the bill to control inter-state bus traffic and several others.

One of the chief progressive objections to the farm board has been that it has refused to exercise its almost unlimited powers to support the wheat market. It is estimated that more wheat is held by farmers now than in any previous November for 20 years, perhaps longer. Under these circumstances the resumed buying of wheat is said on good authority to mean the government's original holdings of 60,000,000 bushels will double soon and perhaps eventually be trebled. Assurances have been given informal assurances of powerful support in the senate for his purchasing program which is a wheat operation without precedent since Herbert Hoover bought and disposed of our 1919 wheat crop with an over-all profit of some millions of dollars.

BANDIT IS FELLED BY SOCK ON JAW

St. Paul, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — A bandit has to be a pretty good bandit to hold up Gustav L. Nelson, oil station attendant.

A smartly dressed young man with a small mustache on his upper lip entered Nelson's station last night and said, "Stick 'em up."

But Nelson told police, "he didn't look like much of a bandit to me. He was too much of a dude, so I just socked him."

The would-be robber fell to the floor and then scrambled from the station before Nelson could stop him.

FLIGHT OF DORNIER FLYING BOAT DO-X DELAYED BY FOG

Bordeaux, France, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — The flight of the Dornier flying boat DO-X to Lisbon was delayed by fog today. Officers of the ship were uncertain whether the flight would be continued until tomorrow.

FOSHAY TOWER IS PATENTED TODAY

Minneapolis, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — The Foshay Tower, the northwest's tallest office building, was patented today.

The patent, issued to W. B. Foshay and G. R. Magney, who was architect and designer of the structure, covers the general design of the tower which was patented after the Washington monument.

Drinker Respirator Keeps Paralysis Victim Alive

Minneapolis, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — His breathing muscles paralyzed by infantile paralysis, Lyle McConnell, 22, today was being kept alive in the Drinker respirator at the University of Minnesota hospital. McConnell is the first of 30 persons stricken with the disease here in the last two months whose life has been endangered.

C., is commanding the squadron from plane No. 2 (bottom).

PREDICTION OF NEW POLITICAL PARTY IN 1932 MADE AT W.C.T.U.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Prediction that a new political party, composed of "dry" republicans and democrats, would participate in the 1932 national election was made today before the national Women's Christian Temperance Union convention.

"The greatest political battle the nation has ever seen will take place in the next election," Mrs. Mamie Colvin White, of New York, said.

"All the 'drys' will be aligned behind one presidential candidate to combat both the republican and democratic parties if their candidates favor either modification or repeal."

Officers investigated reports he had been kidnapped by gangsters and was being held for ransom.

SEN. SCHALL PLURALITY IS 11,608 VOTES

STATE CANVASSING BOARD COMPLETING VOTE OF THE STATE

GRACE KAERCHER DAVIS RE-ELECTED CLERK OF STATE SUPREME COURT

St. Paul, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Senator Thomas D. Schall was re-elected U. S. senator by a plurality of 11,608 votes, the state canvassing board reported today.

The final vote was Schall 293,626; Hoidal, 282,018.

In one of the closest races in recent statewide elections, Grace Kaercher Davis was re-elected clerk of the supreme court by a margin of 992 votes over Roy C. Snelker, farmer-laborer.

The board reported that the first and second constitutional amendments had carried but that the third had lost.

The total vote this year was 828,401 nearly 200,000 under the record figure of 1928.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18. — Hurdled check of official returns indicates conditions that demand careful investigation, Einar Hoidal, democrat, defeated U. S. senatorial candidate, said today.

He stated that the democratic state central committee was still undecided whether a recount of votes in certain northern Minnesota counties would be asked.

Hoidal called attention to the fact that while the total vote in the city of Duluth fell off 27 per cent from that of two years ago, the rest of St. Louis county showed a decrease of less than two per cent. The drop for the state as a whole was about that of the city of Duluth.

"And that comes in the face of reports that the population of range towns and communities has been falling off in recent years," Hoidal said. "This together with reports of various kinds which we have received would indicate that a thorough investigation is needed."

David Belasco, veteran theatrical producer, is ill

New York, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — David Belasco, veteran theatrical producer, is seriously ill with pneumonia in his apartment at the Hotel Gladstone, it was learned today.

Charles A. Levine, well-known in Europe for his trans-Atlantic flight with Clarence D. Chamberlain in 1927, was held as a suspected counterfeiter here today.

Levine was arrested at Semmering as he was ready to board a train for Venice, Italy, police said. It was alleged that he had visited an engraver whom he offered large sums for the counterfeiting of French coins. The engraver reported the incident to the police, and also was arrested.

Police said that Levine vehemently denied the charges against him. Newspaper men were not allowed to see him last night.

RIOTING IN BARCELONA BECOMES VIOLENT

RENEWED CLASHES BETWEEN STRIKERS AND CIVIL GUARDS

3 PERSONS KILLED IN NEW OUTBREAK—ALICANTE ALSO HAS DISORDERS

By WILLIAM H. LANDER (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Madrid, Nov. 18. — Strikes and labor unrest spread throughout Spain today.

Rioting in Barcelona became so violent that military commanders were reported ready to proclaim a state of siege, and in other cities workers were joining the strike movement started by laborers here over the week-end.

While the capital appeared to be returning to normal, the situation in Barcelona and the other centers grew steadily more acute. More than 250 men were arrested in the former city during a night of fighting between strikers and civil guards.

The extent of the trouble at other points in the country was reflected in the following reports:

Seville — Students declared a 24-hour strike.

Ciudad Real — Miners went on strike in Cuenca and Puerto Liano.

Malaga — Labor crisis acute; officials considering opening public works as relief measure.

Mieres — Metal workers struck, demanding higher wages and better conditions.

Cordoba — Officials authorized 900,000 pesetas fund to relieve unemployment.

Antequera — Several arrests in strike disorders.

Labor troubles have been brewing in Spain, especially in Barcelona, for months. There are two main labor organizations in the country bitterly opposed to each other. They are the Federacion Sindicatos and the Sindicato Unico. The latter is not recognized by the government.

"There are two strikes in Barcelona," Premier Gen. Domingo Berenguer said. "One is in sympathy with the strike in Madrid; the other is a movement by the Sindicato Unico, which is seeking recognition."

The 48-hour general strike here was called after police and workers clashed at the funeral of four workmen killed in the collapse of a building.

By CONRAD MALUENDA (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 18. — Serious rioting was renewed by strikers and civil guards in the streets of Barcelona today after a day and night of fighting and increasing tension.

Four persons were killed in the new outbreak, bringing the total of dead in two days of disorders to five. One of the persons injured yesterday died of injuries.

Simultaneously fighting between police and demonstrators started at Alicante, where a strike was begun by some workers contrary to orders of the labor union.

The general strike was started yesterday by the syndicalist union, stopping all activity in the rich industrial city of Barcelona and throwing the region into confusion marked by violent clashes. The strike immediately followed a general strike in Madrid and spread yesterday and today to many other Spanish towns.

Police continued to make wholesale arrests of strike leaders and agitators in Barcelona, seizing about 250 today in addition to some 250 jailed yesterday.

Rioting was renewed in front of the headquarters of the so-called "free syndicate" which is fighting the Sindicato Unico.

Civil guards intervened and fired on the crowd, killing one man and injuring several others.

Fighting in the Plaza Universidad was most severe, becoming a pitched battle between strikers and civil guards who fired on the crowd after shots fired at the strikers. One person was killed and several others seriously wounded, including one civil guard. Many others were hurt.

Flood Conditions Worry Wind-Torn Old South

WEATHER VERY CHECKERED IN THE WEST, MIDDLE WEST

FOG BLANKET LAID OVER THE ENTIRE ATLANTIC COAST

THE CANADIAN PRAIRIES HAVE SLEET, MIDDLE WEST INDIAN SUMMER

(By United Press)

Flood conditions threatening the wind-torn south added today to the checkered weather conditions which laid a fog blanket over the Atlantic coast, coated the far west and Canadian prairies with sleet, and sent the middle west a second Indian summer.

Rivers were rising in Florida, Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina after heavy rains, at Tallahassee, Fla., where ten inches of rain fell in 20 hours, streets were under water.

The full extent of a tornado in Louisiana Saturday night became known. Relief workers counted seven dead, scores injured, 500 homeless, and a half a million dollars damage.

A recurrence of the high winds that swept Louisiana occurred in Alabama and Georgia, destroying and damaging homes, particularly at Mobile and Alton, Ala., and Dawson, Ga.

Varied weather from rain to sleet and snow, blocked highways in many parts of Colorado, Wyoming and Utah, the Sierra Nevada Mountains and the Canadian west, while skies cleared on the Pacific coast after heavy rains.

The middle west and east experienced mild temperatures, but along the Atlantic coast, a heavy fog hampered navigation, causing two vessels to run aground off Block Island. Their crews were rescued.

Denver, Nov. 18. — Snow covered many sections of the Rocky Mountain region today, freezing or sub-freezing temperatures were general throughout the area.

Beginning with heavy rains, the precipitation turned to sleet and then to snow in parts of Wyoming, Colorado and Utah. Traffic was crippled in many sections and a few roads were reported blocked by snow drifts.

On the west coast, the weather was reported clearing after the first heavy rain of the season. In the Sierra Nevada Mountains, roads were blocked by snows. More rain was predicted for northwest California today.

Chicago, Nov. 18. — While awaiting a storm which the weather bureau predicted might sweep in from Canada before the end of the week, Chicagoans enjoyed today weather that was almost spring like.

Reports from the north were that severe sleet and snow storms were general throughout Canada and that some snow had fallen along the northern border of the United States.

The weather bureau predicted the Canadian storm might extend into the midwestern United States the latter part of this week, but said warm weather probably would continue at least until after Wednesday.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 18. — Cessation of rains for a day, followed by resumption of conditions which have prevailed in the southeast for the past week may be expected. C. F. Vonherrmann, government weather forecaster of Atlanta, announced today.

Conditions approaching flood stage — but nothing yet serious — prevail on the Chattahoochee and Apalachicola rivers in Georgia and west Florida, and a moderate rise has occurred in the Flint river, the forecaster reported.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 18. — Crews of linemen continued the restoration of communications in Manitoba today. First direct wire contact with the United States was restored after a 24-hour tie-up due to the sleet storm which snapped wires. Damage was confined largely to telephone and telegraph and power wires.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 18. — A second snow and sleet storm today appeared headed for the northwest, the U. S. weather bureau reported.

Linemen, meanwhile, continued to clear away the wreckage left by Sunday's storm. Thousands of poles and miles of wires were being renovated after they were pulled down by the heavy weight of ice.

Wire communication with Winnipeg and Manitoba from northwest points was resumed today after a 24-hour break.

Practically no snow has fallen in the northwest for the last 24 hours but a new storm was expected tonight, the weather bureau said.

Temperatures were lower in Minnesota and the Dakotas today with Williston, N. D., the coldest spot with 10 degrees. St. Paul had 35, Duluth 32 and Moorhead 26.

The forecast was, "increasing cloudiness; Wednesday rain, turning to snow and colder."

TOLL OF DEER HUNTER DEATHS MOUNTS TO SIX

St. Paul, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — With Minnesota's ten day deer hunting season in its fourth day, the toll of deaths mounted to six today — the number fatalities for the entire 1930 season.

Theodore Martinelli, 47, was found shot to death in upper St. Louis county. Apparently he had been dead for some time and was killed by another hunter who did not know that he had killed the victim.

36 OF CREW MAROONED ON FREIGHTER

HARRY BOWEN RUNS AGROUND OFF MONTAUK POINT, NEW YORK

IMPENETRABLE FOG ALONG ENTIRE ATLANTIC SEABOARD HANDICAPPED VESSEL

New York, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Thirty-six members of the crew of the freighter Harry Bowen were marooned today on their vessel, which ran hard aground yesterday off Montauk Point.

The Bowen, a 3,522-ton ship, was one of three which grounded off New York yesterday in the impenetrable fog that veiled the entire Atlantic seaboard. The Petrel, a fishing trawler, went on the rocks off Block Island, with 23 fishermen aboard and later in the day the Bowen ran aground. The Tattler, a fishing steamer, ran ashore while proceeding to the aid of the Bowen in response to her calls for help.

The crews of the Petrel and the Tattler were taken off by coast guard boats, but the heavy swell prevented rescue craft from coming alongside the Harry Bowen. Coast guard officials announced their intention of taking off the crew of the Bowen today unless it should prove possible to get the ship off the rocks. No immediate fear was felt for the safety of the 36 men aboard.

The 23 fishermen on the Petrel were in desperate straits when the coast guard crew of the life-saving station at Shoreham, L. I., found the ship a quarter of a mile offshore and took off the men. The engine room and boiler room were flooded, and the crew had been clinging to the rigging for hours, with icy waves dashing over them. Nine were at the point of exhaustion.

JOHN FLIGLEMAN, 75, MINNEAPOLIS' 75TH TRAFFIC VICTIM

Minneapolis, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — John Fligleman, 75, was listed today as Minneapolis' 75th traffic victim of the year when he died of injuries received when an automobile struck him as he was crossing the street near his home last night. Fligleman's death was the second traffic fatality of the day. Mrs. Julius Samuelson, Minneapolis, died earlier from injuries received on Nov. 7.

TWO INSURANCE COMPANIES MERGE

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Merging of the Atlas-Republic Insurance Co. of Campbellville, Ky., and the Dixie Life and Accident Insurance Co. of Nashville, was announced here today by Cury Harris, president of the combined company, which will be known as the Dixie-Atlas-Republic Insurance Co.

Home offices of the new combined company will be in Nashville and the capital stock will be increased to $500,000. Harris said. The company will operate in Kentucky, Alabama, Georgia, West Virginia and Tennessee.

SEARCH FOR PLANE THAT CRASHED IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — A search by air and land was started today for a northbound Pacific Air Transport plane that apparently crashed early this morning in the rough country near Lebec.

Seven planes left the United Airport field at Burbank shortly after 10:30 a. m. to fly over the district in the hope of spotting the place where the craft, carrying three persons, was forced down.

Earlier automobile searching parties left Glendale and Burbank and most of the residents of Lebec turned out to aid in the hunt for the plane.

More ships are to be added to the air searching party in event the missing craft is not sighted before noon, it was said.

Administration Leaders Alarmed By Trend of Progressives Toward a Special Session

2 PROJECTS ARE UNDER WAY TO BLOCK INSURGENTS

DEMAND FOR FURTHER FARM RELIEF BELIEVED INCENTIVE FOR SESSION

CHAIRMAN McNARY IS CONFERRING WITH LEADERS ABOUT AGRICULTURE

By LYLE C. WILSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 18. — Administration leaders are alarmed by progressive republican leanings toward a special session of the seventy-second congress and today have two projects under way to block any insurgent move.

Regular republican strategy is predicted on the belief the demand for further farm relief is the most powerful of all incentives for an extra session after March 4. This conclusion is understood to have contributed to the farm board's decision to send the grain stabilization corporation back to the wheat market with orders to buy.

The second movement to head off farm relief proposals was made by Chairman McNary of the senate agriculture committee. The day after McNary conferred with President Hoover and announced a legislative program which excluded farm relief and all else but appropriation bills from the short session, the senators called his committee to meet here on Nov. 25. He invited L. J. Tabon, master of the National Grange; C. E. Huff, of the Farmer's Union; and S. H. Thompson, of the American Farm Bureau, to meet with the committee, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Chairman Legge of the farm board.

McNary said in his telegraphic invitation he believed the meeting "probably would determine whether we should press forward with additional legislation." He described the situation of American farmers as "distressful."

If this meeting should decide against further farm legislation at this time, the administration at least would have the weight of national opposition to introducing so controversial a matter into the short session. If the decision were the other way, the administration could advance its own program in opposition to the export debenture scheme of disposing of farm surpluses. The idea is to get support of the three big industrial organizations for if such a move seems appropriate after the conference.

In effect, this is the administration's reply to the threat of progressive republicans to insist upon further farm relief this winter. Senator Borah, republican, Iowa, refused to speak for his progressive colleagues until he has had an opportunity to confer with them, but he says he will introduce the export debenture proposal. Without committing himself regarding a short session, Borah says there is not time in the three months to which the expiring congress is restricted to dispose of urgent legislation.

Progressives and many democrats class among the urgent matters the Muscle Shoals bill, anti-injunction legislation, the bill to control interstate bus traffic and several others.

One of the chief progressive objections to the farm board has been that it has refused to exercise its almost unlimited powers to support the wheat market. It is estimated that more wheat is held by farmers now than in any previous November for 20 years, perhaps longer. Under these circumstances the resumed buying of wheat is said on good authority to mean the government's original holdings of 60,000,000 bushels will double soon and perhaps eventually be trebled. Legge has been given informal assurances of powerful support in the senate for his purchasing program which is a wheat operation without precedent since Herbert Hoover bought and disposed of our 1919 wheat crop with an over-all profit of some millions of dollars.

BANDIT IS FELLED BY SOCK ON JAW

St. Paul, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — A bandit has to be a pretty good bandit to hold up Gustav L. Nelson, oil station attendant.

A smartly dressed young man with a small mustache on his upper lip entered Nelson's station last night and said, "Stick 'em up."

But, Nelson told police, "he didn't look like much of a bandit to me. He was too much of a dude, so I just socked him."

The would-be robber fell to the floor and then scrambled from the station before Nelson could stop him.

GEO. H. HURFORD, RICH SPORTSMAN, REPORTED MISSING

WEALTHY TULSA MAN DISAPPEARS FROM HIS COUNTRY ESTATE

OFFICERS BELIEVE HE HAS BEEN KIDNAPED AND HELD FOR RANSOM

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — George H. Hurford, wealthy Tulsa sportsman and bookmaker, was missing from his country estate today.

Officers investigated reports he had been kidnapped by gangsters and was being held for ransom.

Detective Chief Earl Franks said that if Hurford was actually kidnapped, it was the boldest challenge, a gang that has threatened several wealthy Tulsans with extortion, has ever made.

Mrs. Hurford, a maid and a caretaker of the country home eight miles east of here, said they were near Hurford at dusk Sunday when two armed men forced the sportsman in a motor car and drove away.

"We want you to come with us," Mrs. Hurford quoted the men as saying.

She said telephone wires to the home had been cut when she attempted to call help.

Night Police Chief Nelson J. Moore said that several months ago he investigated a plot to kidnap Hurford. He said the extortionists were St. Louis gangsters.

Drifting Navy Repairship Overtaken by Three Tugs

San Pedro, Calif., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Foundering seas and a northwest gale tore the U. S. S. Medusa, repairship of the battle fleet, from its moorings beyond the breakwaters today.

The craft drifted at the mercy of a 60-mile wind until overtaken by three navy tugs.

Heavy seas caused the battle fleet to abandon firing practice off San Clemente Island to fight for headway.

PREDICTION OF NEW POLITICAL PARTY IN 1932 MADE AT W.C.T.U.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Prediction that a new political party, composed of "dry" republicans and democrats, would participate in the 1932 national election was made today before the national Women's Christian Temperance Union convention.

"The greatest political battle the nation has ever seen will take place in the next election," Mrs. Mamie Colvin White, of New York, said.

"All the 'drys' will be aligned behind one presidential candidate to combat both the republican and democratic parties if their candidates favor either modification or repeal."

SEN. SCHALL PLURALITY IS 11,608 VOTES

STATE CANVASSING BOARD COMPLETING VOTE OF THE STATE

St. Paul, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Senator Thomas D. Schall was re-elected U. S. senator by a plurality of 11,608 votes, the state canvassing board reported today.

The final vote was Schall 233,626; Hoidal, 282,018.

In one of the closest races in recent state elections, Grace Kaercher Davis was re-elected clerk of the supreme court by a margin of 992 votes over Roy C. Smelker, farmer-laborer.

The board reported that the first and second constitutional amendments had carried but that the third had lost.

The total vote this year was 828,401 nearly 200,000 under the record figure of 1928.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18. — Hurried check of official returns indicates conditions that demand careful investigation. Einar Hoidal, democrat, defeated U. S. senatorial candidate, said today.

He stated that the democratic state central committee was still undecided whether a recount of votes in certain northern Minnesota counties would be asked.

Hoidal called attention to the fact that while the total vote in the city of Duluth fell off 27 per cent from that of two years ago, the rest of St. Louis county showed a decrease of less than two per cent. The drop for the state as a whole was about that of the city of Duluth.

"And that comes in the face of reports that the population of range towns and communities has been falling off in recent years," Hoidal said.

"This together with reports of various kinds which we have received would indicate that a thorough investigation is needed."

DEFEATED STICKER CAMPAIGN CANDIDATE IS DISGRUNTLED

Red Wing, Minn., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — C. L. Grover, defeated sticker candidate for state senator in the 19th district, today charged his victorious opponent, Senator A. J. Rockne, with irregularities in the election campaign. A hearing of the case will be conducted in district court December 6.

Rockne and his workers, Grover charged, circulated false reports to the effect that Grover had withdrawn from the race a few days before the election.

Grover also charged that sufficient room was not left on the ballot for a sticker candidate and that he lost many votes because of this. The vote was 6,435 for Rockne and 2,584 for Grover.

FRED PABST INVITES ELLA A. BOOLE TO VISIT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Fred Pabst, head of the Pabst corporation, today invited Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, to visit Milwaukee and see the improvements made in his company's breweries in expectation of the return of beer.

Pabst reiterated the statement that his company has spent between $800,000 and $1,000,000 on new equipment and modernization "only because we have faith that the dry law will be modified to permit making of beer."

CHARLES A. LEVINE HELD AS SUSPECTED COUNTERFEITER

Vienna, Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Charles A. Levine, well-known in Europe for his trans-Atlantic flight with Clarence D. Chamberlain in 1927, was held as a suspected counterfeiter here today.

Levine was arrested at Semmering as he was ready to board a train for Venice, Italy, police said. It was alleged that he had visited an engraver whom he offered large sums for the counterfeiting of French coins. The engraver reported the incident to the police, and also was arrested.

Police said that Levine vehemently denied the charges against him. Newspaper men were not allowed to see him last night.

Ashland, Wis., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Iron ore shipping had closed for the 1930 season here today with the clearing of the steamer Norton for lower lake ports. Ashland cleared slightly less than 5,000,000 tons of ore this year while shipments as a whole were 25 per cent below normal.

RIOTING IN BARCELONA BECOMES VIOLENT

RENEWED CLASHES BETWEEN STRIKERS AND CIVIL GUARDS

3 PERSONS KILLED IN NEW OUTBREAK—ALICANTE ALSO HAS DISORDERS

By WILLIAM H. LANDER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Madrid, Nov. 18. — Strikes and labor unrest spread throughout Spain today.

Rioting in Barcelona became so violent that military commanders were reported ready to proclaim a state of siege, and in other cities workers were joining the strike movement started by laborers here over the week-end.

While the capital appeared to be returning to normal, the situation in Barcelona and the other centers grew steadily more acute. More than 250 men were arrested in the former city during a night of fighting between strikers and civil guards.

The extent of the trouble at other points in the country was reflected in the following reports:

Seville — Students declared a 24-hour strike.

Ciudad Real — Miners went on strike in Cuenca and Puerto Llano.

Malaga — Labor crisis acute; officials considering opening public works as relief measure.

Mieres — Metal workers struck, demanding higher wages and better conditions.

Cordoba — Officials authorized 900,000 peseta fund to relieve unemployment.

Antequera — Several arrests in strike disorders.

Labor troubles have been brewing in Spain, especially in Barcelona, for months. There are two main labor organizations in the country bitterly opposed to each other. They are the Federacion Sindicalista and the Sindicato Unico. The latter is not recognized by the government.

"They are two strikes in Barcelona," Premier Gen. Donoso Berenguer said. "One is in sympathy with the strike in Madrid; the other is a movement by the Sindicato Unico, which is seeking recognition."

The 48-hour general strike here was called after police and workers clashed at the funeral of four workmen killed in the collapse of a building.

By CONRAD MALUENDA

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 18. — Serious rioting was renewed by strikers and civil guards in the streets of Barcelona today after a day and night of fighting and increasing tension.

Four persons were killed in the new outbreak, bringing the total of dead in two days of disorders to five. One of the persons injured yesterday died of injuries.

Simultaneously fighting between police and demonstrators started at Alicante, where a strike was begun by some workers contrary to orders of the labor union.

The general strike was started yesterday by the syndicalist union, stopping all activity in the rich industrial city of Barcelona and throwing the region into confusion marked by violent clashes. The strike immediately followed a general strike in Madrid and spread yesterday and today to many other Spanish towns.

Police continued to make wholesale arrests of strike leaders and agitators in Barcelona, seizing about 250 today in addition to some 250 jailed yesterday.

Rioting was renewed in front of the headquarters of the so-called "free syndicate" which is fighting the Sindicato Unico.

Civil guards intervened and fired on the crowd, killing one man and injuring several others.

Fighting in the Plaza Universidad was most severe, becoming a pitched battle between strikers and civil guards who fired on the crowd after shots fired at the strikers. One person was killed and several others seriously wounded, including one civil guard. Many others were hurt.

Police said that Levine vehemently denied the charges against him. Newspaper men were not allowed to see him last night.

Ashland, Wis., Nov. 18. — (U.P.) — Iron ore shipping had closed for the 1930 season here today with the clearing of the steamer Norton for lower lake ports. Ashland cleared slightly less than 5,000,000 tons of ore this year while shipments as a whole were 25 per cent below normal.

Ocean Levels

The mean level of the Pacific at the isthmus of Panama has been found to be about eight inches higher than the mean level of the Atlantic. In the month of February the levels are the same, but throughout the rest of the year, on account of current, tidal and wind influences, the mean level of the Pacific ranges above that of the Atlantic. It is as much as one foot higher in October.

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

CHAPTER XXV.

TRIS lounged in a corner of the deserted room. He was sunk deeply into the cushions of a divan, head back. He looked very weary, young and afraid somehow.

Judy came silently to the door, stood watching him a moment, thinking of him as he had looked yesterday in Notre Dame. Gay, laughing thing. Only a boy after all who had broken all restraints, gone faring on his own audacious way. Did he find that way haunted by the long shadow of regret?

She crossed to him swiftly and he sprang up all a-sparkle again, seized her hands, drew her to him very gently. "See how much I love you, my sweet. Second time I've turned out in the gray dawn for you."

"But it's long past dawn, Tris," she laughed against his lips, reached up and ran her fingers through his hair. She felt suddenly jubilant, the doubts that had been worrying at her spirit all morning stilled and forgotten. "The flowers were lovely... Tris, it's the first time I've ever had flowers—or a love letter—"

He gave a quick look, folded her hands in the way he had and pressed them against his heart. "Never in love, then? Never kissed?"

She asked, with a strange, disturbing pang. "Oh, you've been in love? Many times? Oh, of course—"

"No." His face hardened, grew sombre. "Not love. Not like this. Love comes only once. I didn't want it; told you this last night. Said I'd never let it happen to me. Upsets a man's life. Steals his freedom. Interferes—"

"You think it wouldn't do that to a girl? Women want freedom too. Women want to do stalwart things—plan high destinies—"

"Of course, Judy. Think I haven't considered this? All last night."

Her tension relaxed. Different from anyone else he was; different from any man she ever had known. He admitted women had rights of their own. He believed this.

"You're wonderful, Tris." He caught her fast, answered in a teasing way. "You know it now? Little child—little Puritan—kiss me—"

He pressed her lips, said with his voice a-throb, "Puritan's kiss."

They sat close together on the divan and he talked of the future. "Could you marry a hobo, Judy? Here today, gone tomorrow. Nagasaki in Spring time—you'd love the cherry blossoms. Easter time in Rome. New Year in Vienna. Saunter the Winter away on the Riviera."

Her dreams soared. This was what she longed for always. Only it seemed unreal, vanishing in thin air.

"This is what you will do? This? Bird on the wing. It sounds entrancing."

"I couldn't be still. Why should one settle in a groove? There's a whole world waiting if you have the courage to reach for it. Beat fate at her own game. Snatch gold from her life."

"And does life never strike back? Blows that knock you down?"

"You don't stay down, my sweet. Get up and hit hard—learn to parry the blows. Secret of adventure. Does the thought of conflict frighten you?"

She breathed out of a rapt joy, "No—oh, no."

He kept pressing her hands. His dark face was livid, bending down to her, his eyes possessing hers. "Judy—will you marry me? I love you so! Some day—very soon—"

After a great time Judy heard her own voice as a sound vague and far away speaking out of the silence that seemed to have wrapped her in its deep, mysterious depth. "Tris—I don't know. Oh, I don't know."

He was very gentle, running his hand over her hair, drawing her head against his shoulder. "You love me, sweet?"

"I don't know." Tears filled her

"See how much I love you, sweet? Second time I've turned out in the gray dawn for you."

eyes, went splashing down. "I think so. How can I be sure? You have to know. Certainly you have to know about a thing like this."

"You like me to kiss you? Like my arms around you?"

"Yes—"

He chuckled, dropped a string of very little kisses about her throat. I'll wait. When we're back in New York you'll be sure. Some morning I'll come for you. Some day when the sun shines and the sky is blue. There'll be a few words—weddings should be like that, Judy. Just a few words—and then we'll go away. And I'll love you forever and ever."

She gave him a misty smile. Sometimes she had imagined such a thing as this happening to her—to the other Judy. But it had been more real in her fancies than this. This didn't seem real—she couldn't make it seem real.

He took a soft leather case from his pocket, lifted a necklace from tissue wrappings. "Minute we touch New York I shall give you the most beautiful ring in the world. Diamond and sapphires, Judy. Diamond bright as love, and sapphires lovely as truth. Love and truth, Judy. Please wear this till then?"

Ugly silver thing. Saw it in an antique shop. I'd like you to wear something I've given you."

She received the necklet almost reluctantly, ran it through her fingers. It was hammered silver an old design of four-leaved clovers wrought into a vine and caught with an old-fashioned clasp. Three of the clovers had been trimmed away from the center and in their place large dull stones mounted. They were a grayish color and showed faintly green as Judy raised the necklet to the light.

"What are they, Tris? I've never seen anything like this." "Oh, moonstones, perhaps. Or pebbles. Let me fasten it for you."

He put it around her neck, dropped a kiss against the clasp. "Means you're mine, now. You belong to me."

"I didn't promise that."

"Well— He laughed, mur-

"EVIDENCE OF MODERN ENTERPRISE"

Says

MAJ. GEN.

FRANKLIN W. WARD

The Adjutant General of New York

"Alertness to grasp the application of modern developments is a necessary characteristic to successful management. By including the Ultra Violet Ray principle in the 'Toasting' of your tobaccos, you give evidence of modern enterprise which I applaud."

Franklin W. Ward

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows — that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE — the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos — the Cream of the Crop — THEN — "IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection — against irritation — against cough

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Maj. Gen. Franklin W. Ward to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Maj. Gen. Ward appears on this page.

PUMPING SYSTEM GOOD FOR WATER

Windmill Utilizes Cheapest Source of Power.

Demand for greater quantities of water for dairy and live stock uses calls for a pumping system which requires but little attention and utilizes the cheapest source of power available. Although the windmill has been a common sight on farms for a good many years, an increasing number of farmers are finding it possible to extend its usefulness beyond the single stock tank in the barnyard.

Dairy farmers have found that by placing a storage tank in the mow of the barn, drinking cups may be installed which greatly add to the profit from their herds. If the barn is well constructed, the heat from the stock will keep the water from freezing, particularly if the precaution is taken to remove the flooring from below the tank.

One farmer does not worry about getting a good pack in his silo, even in the face of an early frost. A light breeze provides the windmill on this Iowa farm with sufficient power to pump water directly into the silo, while a large under-ground storage tank holds plenty of water in reserve for his live stock. For household use a windmill may be installed in connection with an air pressure system using a gasoline engine if necessary for supplementary power. This will provide running water for all conveniences in the home and may also be piped to the chicken house or to other outlying buildings if not too great a quantity is desired.

The adaption of anti-friction bearings and automatic oiling systems which require less attention have greatly increased the amount of power available for useful work. With lessened resistance they begin pumping in lighter winds which make them useful over longer periods of time and increase the quantity of water that can be pumped.

The capacity of the windmill varies according to the velocity of the wind, the diameter of the pump cylinder, the diameter of the wheel, and the lift required. By doubling the diameter of the cylinder, the capacity of the pump is increased by four times. However many make the mistake of using too large a cylinder which limits the usefulness of the mill to a strong wind.

Bacteria Can't Thrive in Cold Temperature

Milk is the most perishable of any of the common foods, because it is an ideal place for bacteria to grow, says Prof. J. D. Brew of Cornell University.

The number of bacteria in the milk may vary from a few thousand to more than a million in a cubic centimeter, which is about 25 drops, and the more bacteria present the quicker the milk sours. Science has found three ways to stop this growth but only one is practical for farm use and that is to cool the milk to a point where the growth takes place slowly.

As crop growth is best at warm temperatures, and may be retarded by cool weather, and stopped by colder temperatures, so bacteria that will multiply rapidly in milk at 70 degrees Fahrenheit slacken growth at 60 degrees and at 50 degrees the bacteria crop outlook is poor.

Professor Hammer of Iowa found that a high grade of milk with a low bacteria count soured in 53 hours when kept at 60 degrees, the same milk kept sweet 86 hours at 50 degrees, and at 32 degrees it took more than a month to sour.

Salt Quite Essential to Dairy Cows Daily

Salt is essential to dairy cows and they should have access to it daily. The average requirement is about three-fourths of an ounce daily per 1,000 pounds of live weight with an additional three-fourths of an ounce required for each 20 pounds of milk produced. Cows may be allowed free access to salt or it may be mixed with the grain feed. One of the most practical and satisfactory plans is to mix it with the grain in the proportion of one pound for each 100 pounds of the grain mixture.

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

CHAPTER XXV.

TRIS lounged in a corner of the deserted room. He was sunk deeply into the cushions of a divan, head back. He looked weary, young and afraid somehow. Judy came silently to the door, stood watching him a moment, thinking of him as he had looked yesterday in Notre Dame. Gay, laughing thing. Only a boy after all who had broken all restraints, gone faring on his own audacious way. Did he find that way haunted by the long shadow of regret?

She crossed to him swiftly and he sprang up all a-sparkle again, seized her hands, drew her to him very gently. "See how much I love you, my sweet. Second time I've turned out in the gray dawn for you."

"But it's long past dawn, Tris." She laughed against his lips, reached up and ran her fingers through his hair. She felt suddenly jubilant, the doubts that had been worrying at her spirit all morning stilled and forgotten. "The flowers were lovely. . . . Tris, it's the first time I've ever had flowers—or a love letter."

He gave a quick look, folded her hands in the way he had and pressed them against his heart. "Never in love, then? Never kissed?"

She asked, with a strange, disturbing pang, "Oh, you've been in love? Many times? Oh, of course."

"No." His face hardened, grew sombre. "Not love. Not like this. Love comes only once. I didn't want it; told you this last night."

"Said I'd never let it happen to me. Upsets a man's life. Steals his freedom. Interferes—"

"You think it wouldn't do that to a girl? Women want freedom too. Women want to do stalwart things—plan high destinies—"

"Of course, Judy. Think I haven't considered this? All last night."

Her tension relaxed. Different from anyone else he was; different from any man she ever had known. He admitted women had rights of their own. He believed this.

"You're wonderful, Tris." He caught her fast, answered in a teasing way. "You know it now? Little child—little Puritan—kiss me—"

He pressed her lips, said with his voice a-throb, "Puritan's kiss."

They sat close together on the divan and he talked of the future. "Could you marry a hobo, Judy? Here today, gone tomorrow. Nagasaki in Spring time—you'd love the cherry blossoms. Easter time in Rome. New Year in Vienna. Saunter the Winter away on the Riviera."

Her dreams soared. This was what she longed for always. Only it seemed unreal, vanishing in thin air.

"This is what you will do? This? Bird on the wing. It sounds entrancing."

"I couldn't be still. Why should one settle in a groove? There's a whole world waiting if you have the courage to reach for it. Beat fate at her own game. Snatch gold from her life."

"And does life never strike back? Blows that knock you down?"

"You don't stay down, my sweet. Get up and hit hard—learn to parry the blows. Secret of adventure. Does the thought of conflict frighten you?"

She breathed out of a rapt joy, "No—oh, no."

He kept pressing her hands. His dark face was livid, bending down to her, his eyes possessing hers. "Judy—will you marry me? I love you so! Some day—very soon—"

After a great time Judy heard her own voice as a sound vague and far away speaking out of the silence that seemed to have wrapped her in its deep, mysterious depth. "I—Tris—I don't know. Oh, I don't know."

He was very gentle, running his hand over her hair, drawing her head against his shoulder. "You love me, sweet?"

"I don't know." Tears filled her

Ugly silver thing. Saw it in an antique shop. I'd like you to wear something I've given you."

She received the necklet almost reluctantly, ran it through her fingers. It was hammered silver an old design of four-leaved clovers wrought into a vine and caught with an old-fashioned clasp. Three of the clovers had been trimmed away from the center and in their place large dull stones mounted. They were a grayish color and showed faintly green as Judy raised the necklet to the light.

"What are they, Tris? I've never seen anything like this." "Oh, moonstones, perhaps. Or pebbles. Let me fasten it for you."

He put it around her neck, dropped a kiss against the clasp. "Means you're mine, now. You belong to me."

"I didn't promise that." "Well—" He laughed, mur-

"See how much I love you, sweet? Second time I've turned out in the gray dawn for you."

eyes, went splashing down. "I think so. How can I be sure? You have to know. Certainly you have to know about a thing like this."

"You like me to kiss you? Like my arms around you?"

"Yes."

He chuckled, dropped a string of very little kisses about her throat. I'll wait. When we're back in New York you'll be sure. Some morning I'll come for you. Some day when the sun shines and the sky is blue. There'll be a few words—weddings should be like that, Judy, just a few words—and then we'll go away. And I'll love you forever and ever."

She gave him a misty smile. Sometimes she had imagined such a thing as this happening to her—to the other Judy. But it had been more real in her fancies than this. This didn't seem real—she couldn't make it seem real.

He took a soft leather case from his pocket, lifted a necklace from tissue wrappings. "Minute we touch New York I shall give you the most beautiful ring in the world. Diamond and sapphires, Judy. Diamond bright as love, and sapphires lovely as truth. Love and truth, Judy. Please wear this till then?"

mured against her ear. "Let it stand for a promise of a promise then. That okay?"

"I suppose so." The silver leaves were cool against her skin. She opened her handbag, held up the little vanity mirror, turning it to catch the reflection of her throat.

The mirror slipped upward as she was about to close the bag and suddenly gave back the window behind the divan.

A face was on the other side of the glass. A face thrust forward, peering at Tris and herself. A face with a scar running from chin to temple.

Ice ran up Judy's arm. Ice circled her heart, numbed her lips. She closed the handbag with a snap, her fingers shaking against the metal. The mystery which followed Tris had caught up again and hung over them both now, throwing a sinister shadow across this glowing hour.

Had the narrow, piercing eyes met hers in the little square of mirror? She fancied them probing her own without malice but with ruthlessness more terrible than malice.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

"EVIDENCE OF MODERN ENTERPRISE"

Says

MAJ. GEN.

FRANKLIN W. WARD

The Adjutant General of New York

"Alertness to grasp the application of modern developments is a necessary characteristic to successful management. By including the Ultra Violet Ray principle in the 'Toasting' of your tobaccos, you give evidence of modern enterprise which I applaud."

Franklin W. Ward

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows — that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE — the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos — the Cream of the Crop — THEN — "IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection — against irritation — against cough

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Maj. Gen. Franklin W. Ward to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Maj. Gen. Ward appears on this page.

PUMPING SYSTEM GOOD FOR WATER

Windmill Utilizes Cheapest Source of Power.

Demand for greater quantities of water for dairy and live stock uses calls for a pumping system which requires but little attention and utilizes the cheapest source of power available. Although the windmill has been a common sight on farms for a good many years, an increasing number of farmers are finding it possible to extend its usefulness beyond the single stock tank in the barnyard.

Dairy farmers have found that by placing a storage tank in the mow of the barn, drinking cups may be installed which greatly add to the profit from their herds. If the barn is well constructed, the heat from the stock will keep the water from freezing, particularly if the precaution is taken to remove the flooring from below the tank.

One farmer does not worry about getting a good pack in his silo, even in the face of an early frost. A light breeze provides the windmill on this Iowa farm with sufficient power to pump water directly into the silo, while a large under-ground storage tank holds plenty of water in reserve for his live stock. For household use a windmill may be installed in connection with an air pressure system using a gasoline engine if necessary for supplementary power. This will provide running water for all conveniences in the home and may also be piped to the chicken house or to other outlying buildings if not too great a quantity is desired.

The adaption of anti-friction bearings and automatic oiling systems which require less attention have greatly increased the amount of power available for useful work. With lessened resistance they begin pumping in lighter winds which make them useful over longer periods of time and increase the quantity of water that can be pumped.

The capacity of the windmill varies according to the velocity of the wind, the diameter of the pump cylinder, the diameter of the wheel, and the lift required. By doubling the diameter of the cylinder, the capacity of the pump is increased by four times. However many make the mistake of using too large a cylinder which limits the usefulness of the mill to a strong wind.

Black Arteries

To the Romans a road was a means to an end. Straight as a string, built with uncompromising zeal over all obstacles; streams, marshes, mountains, other men's property, and the numerous other irregularities which lie in the path of material logic, your Roman road was designed to "get there," says the Providence Bulletin.

The superhighways which our latter day road builders are advocating have no such simple duty. They are to be the nourishing arteries of our entire economic system, employing thousands of laborers in their construction and upkeep, stimulating hundreds of wayside industries.

There is something fantastic in the vision of America rolling joyously along the broad highways from Maine to California, bypassing the cities, hurdling the mountains, skimming the plains, consuming sandwiches and gasoline, and keeping business humming by wear and tear on apparatus.

They say—or they used to—that a hundred persons are involved in the natural life of one needle from its birth in the mine to its interment in a crack of the sewing room floor. Think of the millions involved in the eternal life of these superhighways. The conception becomes staggering under the added thought of the five day week releasing carloads of customers over the week-end. People spend twice as much on holidays as they do on workdays.

We confess that we lack the prophetic vision to see how successfully this enthusiastic migration would solve the difficulties that confront us. But of all the panaceas which the troubled times have called forth this one of black arteries certainly makes the liveliest imaginative appeal. "We don't know where we're going, but we're on our way," isn't such a bad slogan for a light-hearted people—at least it wouldn't be if they didn't have to come back.

About Radio Interference

FORTY per cent of the homes in Minnesota are now using radio sets. This distribution is not concentrated in large or small cities, or in any class of homes, but is spread throughout the state. One finds the farmer, who may seem isolated to some people, enjoying his radio with every bit as much pleasure and profit, as the city owner of a set. Frequently the farmer has less interference and gets more benefit from his radio by following price trends in farm produce of all kinds, marketing news, etc., than does his city cousin who may be engrossed in football and hockey reviews, jazz music, etc.

Radio has been a medium in extending communication and has followed in the wake of the rural telephone, rural mail, rural highways, daily newspapers, etc.

With so many radio users, the matter of radio interference has become a statewide problem and entitled to recognition and a solution, if possible. A number of legislators are interested in the matter and a bill is to be presented this session dealing with the subject. It is hoped that with passage of a practical bill that some of the grossest forms of interference can be eliminated.

Experts who have examined Brainerd say conditions here are fairly good and not one-half as noisy as in Rochester. Down in Rochester the hospitals and medical machines are factors in the disturbance. As Rochester's whole business rests upon a hospital basis, the question of interference must be treated in a scientific, equitable manner. One cannot legislate a hospital out of existence to contribute to the enjoyment of a radio fan's program. This therefore calls for a practical solution.

It is only in the last year that definite knowledge has been gained as to causes of interference and especially thoughtless causes.

November in the Lake Country

NOVEMBER in the Brainerd Lake Region continues to carry Indian summer memories and the month sustains its reputation as being mild, with hardly a taste of the winter that is supposed to be just around the corner.

A blizzard from northern Canada, headed for this section last week, very obligingly sidetracked somewhere else and the Cities Service company was able to have its cement sidewalk completed. If you told an Illinois or New York man that this lake region permits cement work in the open air in the middle of the month, he would not believe it.

Roads continue very good, for the highway departments of state and county are doing their best to present smooth, clean surfaces for the final freezeup.

Out on the lakes one finds shore ice, but few if any sheets of water are entirely frozen over. Farmers engaged in plowing find the soil very dry. The recent moisture has benefited the ground, as it has clung to the soil. However, the country requires a lot of snow and rain before next spring to bring land and lakes to their required levels.

Seasonal business continues good and the heavy advertising of Brainerd merchants brought many customers to town Saturday. Had it been colder with snow in the air, there would have been more of a rush for rubbers, overshoes, etc.

"Balance of Power"

SENATOR HENRIK SHIPSTEAD, writing in the Washington Herald, says that if Tuesday's election had been held in any foreign country where the people can vote, the result would have been heralded as a lack of confidence in the government and the government would resign. That is the parliamentary system.

In countries where the governments are changed by the gun and the sword, or by the blackjack and castor oil, the change results in a dictatorship of the proletariat in the name of communism or of capital in the name of the Fascisti. That is the revolutionary system.

Under the American system the people express not only a "lack of confidence" in officials entrusted with power, but get the same result as is being accomplished by revolution when they vote out the existing government and vote in the new.

Those who are now elected to power and those who remain in power will make a grave mistake if they interpret the revolt of the people of all classes, expressed at the polls, as merely a preference for tweedledee over tweedledum.

TAKEN FOR A RIDE

Red Retreats From War Zone

This Red fared poorly after the conflict of 1,500 Communists with the police at New York City. Not only was his head bruised by a policeman's club, but he is shown going to jail besides. A sympathizer is holding a handkerchief as a bandage. Many shoppers in the "war zone" were pushed and pummeled.

Gold Rush—In Ice and Snow

Ice and snow do not deter these gold seekers as they erect a new camp in the Matachewan district near Bannockburn, Ontario, where operations will be centered on probing the gold strike discovered by Bert Ashley and Bill Garvey. The two prospectors are shown at the extreme right superintending the job of camp construction.

As Usual

An opera singer breaks into the news with the statement that "women are going to drive the machine of world affairs in the not-far future." If so, the men will be riding in the grumble seat.

Important Glands

The ductless glands which control the height of man are the thyroid and parathyroids. As far back as 1856 the medical profession recognized the relation of these to the growth and development of the human body.

The Trade-mark

Old silversmiths, in order to help people tell pure silver from cheaper imitations, marked the real thing "sterling."

In a like manner, manufacturers, who stand back of their wares, identify them with trade-marks that are your guarantee of quality. By advertising these trade-marks, they focus on their products the searchlight of attention.

Only good goods, fairly priced, can flourish in this light of publicity. For no merchandise and no business can thrive under the weight of public condemnation.

That is why a manufacturer, or a merchant, places the whole reputation of his business at stake every time he advertises. His goods must be as advertised.

So, in looking through this paper, remember this: the man who spends his money to invite your consideration of his wares backs up his belief in his goods and leaves the final decision to you.

It pays you to read the advertisements. It pays you to buy advertised products.

Advertising is your protection

They say—or they used to—that a hundred persons are involved in the natural life of one needle from its birth in the mine to its interment in a crack of the sewing room floor. Think of the millions involved in the eternal life of these superhighways. The conception becomes staggering under the added thought of the five day week releasing carloads of customers over the week-end. People spend twice as much on holidays as they do on workdays.

We confess that we lack the prophetic vision to see how successfully this enthusiastic migration would solve the difficulties that confront us. But of all the panaceas which the troubled times have called forth this one of black arteries certainly makes the liveliest imaginative appeal. "We don't know where we're going, but we're on our way," isn't such a bad slogan for a light-hearted people—at least it wouldn't be if they didn't have to come back.

About Radio Interference

Forty per cent of the homes in Minnesota are now using radio sets. This distribution is not concentrated in large or small cities, or in any class of homes, but is spread throughout the state. One finds the farmer, who may seem isolated to some people, enjoying his radio with every bit as much pleasure and profit, as the city owner of a set. Frequently the farmer has less interference and gets more benefit from his radio by following price trends in farm produce of all kinds, marketing news, etc., than does his city cousin who may be engrossed in football and hockey reviews, jazz music, etc.

Radio has been a medium in extending communication and has followed in the wake of the rural telephone, rural mail, rural highways, daily newspapers, etc.

With so many radio users, the matter of radio interference has become a statewide problem and entitled to recognition and a solution, if possible. A number of legislators are interested in the matter and a bill is to be presented this session dealing with the subject. It is hoped that with passage of a practical bill that some of the grossest forms of interference can be eliminated.

Experts who have examined Brainerd say conditions here are fairly good and not one-half as noisy as in Rochester. Down in Rochester the hospitals and medical machines are factors in the disturbance. As Rochester's whole business rests upon a hospital basis, the question of interference must be treated in a scientific, equitable manner. One cannot legislate a hospital out of existence to contribute to the enjoyment of a radio fan's program. This therefore calls for a practical solution.

It is only in the last year that definite knowledge has been gained as to causes of interference and especially thoughtless causes.

November in the Lake Country

NOVEMBER in the Brainerd-Lake Region continues to carry Indian summer memories and the month sustains its reputation as being mild, with hardly a taste of the winter that is supposed to be just around the corner.

A blizzard from northern Canada, headed for this section last week, very obligingly sidetracked somewhere else and the Cities Service company was able to have its cement sidewalk completed. If you told an Illinois or New York man that this lake region permits cement work in the open air in the middle of the month, he would not believe it.

Roads continue very good, for the highway departments of state and county are doing their best to present smooth, clean surfaces for the final freezeup.

Out on the lakes one finds shore ice, but few if any sheets of water are entirely frozen over. Farmers engaged in plowing find the soil very dry. The recent moisture has benefited the ground, as it has clung to the soil. However, the country requires a lot of snow and rain before next spring to bring land and lakes to their required levels.

Seasonal business continues good and the heavy advertising of Brainerd merchants brought many customers to town Saturday. Had it been colder with snow in the air, there would have been more of a rush for rubbers, overshoes, etc.

"Balance of Power"

SENATOR HENRIK SHIPSTEAD, writing in the Washington Herald, says that if Tuesday's election had been held in any foreign country where the people can vote, the result would have been heralded as a lack of confidence in the government and the government would resign. That is the parliamentary system.

In countries where the governments are changed by the gun and the sword, or by the blackjack and castor oil, the change results in a dictatorship of the proletariat in the name of communism or of capital in the name of the Fascisti. That is the revolutionary system.

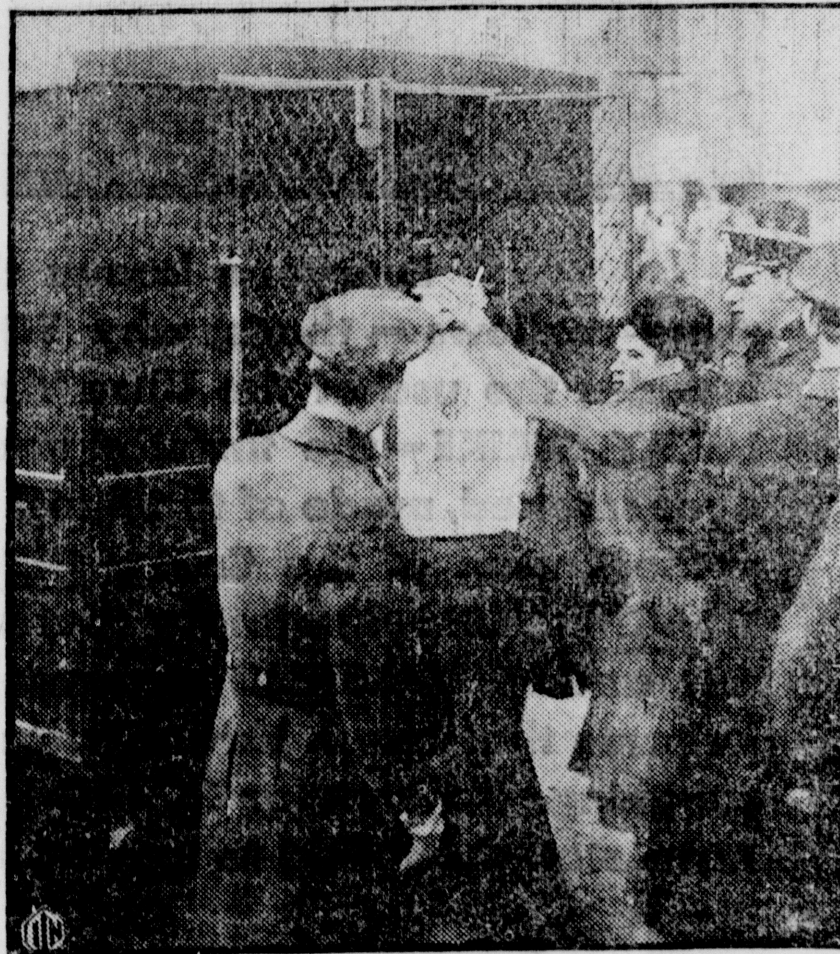

Under the American system the people express not only a "lack of confidence" in officials entrusted with power, but get the same result as is being accomplished by revolution when they vote out the existing government and vote in the new.

Those who are now elected to power and those who remain in power will make a grave mistake if they interpret the revolt of the people of all classes, expressed at the polls, as merely a preference for tweedledee over tweedledum.

TAKEN FOR A RIDE

Red Retreats From War Zone

This Red fared poorly after the conflict of 1,500 Communists with the police at New York City. Not only was his head bruised by a policeman's club, but he is shown going to jail besides. A sympathizer is holding a handkerchief as a bandage. Many shoppers in the "war zone" were pushed and pummeled.

Gold Rush—In Ice and Snow

Ice and snow do not deter these gold seekers as they erect a new camp in the Matachewan district near Bannockburn, Ontario, where operations will be centered on probing the gold strike discovered by Bert Ashby and Bill Garvey. The two prospectors are shown at the extreme right superintending the job of camp construction.

As Usual

An opera singer breaks into the news with the statement that "women are going to drive the machine of world affairs in the not far future." If so, the men will be riding in the grumble seat.

Important Glands

The ductless glands which control the height of man are the thyroid and parathyroids. As far back as 1856 the medical profession recognized the relation of these to the growth and development of the human body.

The Trade-mark

Old silversmiths, in order to help people tell pure silver from cheaper imitations, marked the real thing "sterling."

In a like manner, manufacturers, who stand back of their wares, identify them with trade-marks that are your guarantee of quality. By advertising these trade-marks, they focus on their products the searchlight of attention.

Only good goods, fairly priced, can flourish in this light of publicity. For no merchandise and no business can thrive under the weight of public condemnation.

That is why a manufacturer, or a merchant, places the whole reputation of his business at stake every time he advertises. His goods must be as advertised.

So, in looking through this paper, remember this: the man who spends his money to invite your consideration of his wares backs up his belief in his goods and leaves the final decision to you.

It pays you to read the advertisements. It pays you to buy advertised products.

Advertising is your protection

IRISH AND WILDCATS LOSE FIRST-STRING FULLBACKS

BOTH MINUS STAR EACH IN CRUCIAL GAME

PUG RENTNER, NORTHWESTERN PASSING ACE, OUT OF GAME ON ACCOUNT OF INJURY

SAVOLDI VOLUNTARILY WITH-DRAWS FROM NOTRE DAME, CLOSING GRID CAREER

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Notre Dame and Northwestern today were both minus their first-string fullbacks for Saturday's crucial game between the two undefeated teams at Dyche stadium, Evanston.

With Pug Rentner, Northwestern's passing ace, already out of the game because of an injured shoulder, "Jumping Joe" Savoldi, Three Oaks, Mich., Italian, voluntarily withdrew from Notre Dame and closed his collegiate gridiron career.

Savoldi's withdrawal yesterday resulted from his marital affairs which brought him into disfavor with university authorities. He was secretly married to Miss Audrey Koehler of South Bend June 8, 1928, but this was not known until he filed a divorce petition November 6 this year, two days before the Pennsylvania game. He withdrew the petition the next day, but too late to prevent university officials from finding it out.

Knute Rockne has four fullbacks left on the squad, but not one of them can carry the ball in a class with the colorful Italian. Savoldi was the leading scorer of the Notre Dame team, having scored eight of its 32 touchdowns for a total of 48 points. He ran a kick-off back 97 yards against Southern Methodist, made three long runs for touchdowns against the Navy, and has never been halted consistently by any team.

The fullbacks left on the Notre Dame squad are Larry Mullins, who will start against Northwestern, Dan Hanley, a dark horse from Butte, Mont., who was kept under cover until last Saturday; Fred Staab of Madson, Wis., and Al Howard of Alhambra, Calif.

In his first appearance in the Notre Dame lineup last week against Drake, Hanley, who stands 6 feet, 1½ inches in height and weighs 195 pounds, ripped off 45 yards for Notre Dame's first touchdown and when he went back into the game in the final period reeled off a 73-yard run.

Although Savoldi's collegiate career is over, he told friends today that he would play in charity football games next month in New York City and Los Angeles with other former Notre Dame players under the guidance of Rockne.

HANLEY REVIVES SPIRIT OF TEAM BY HIS 'SERMON'

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Coach Dick Hanley's "sermon" to the Northwestern university football team between halves of the Wisconsin game became the text of Bishop Gordon Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago last night.

Bishop Stewart described to the Episcopal church club the effectiveness with which Wisconsin gained through the Northwestern line in the first half of last Saturday's game.

"The spirit of the team was revived by Hanley between halves," said Bishop Stewart. "I wondered how he did it. Tonight, I found out. This is what he said:

"Boys, you've had a hard season. I don't blame you for being tired. I'm not blaming you a bit, but I have just one question to ask: Have you put your last ounce into it? Have you given all you've got?"

"One of Hanley's star players wept. The team went out and won the game."

BEWILDERED WORLD WONDERS ABOUT SUCCESSOR

RETIREES AT HEIGHT OF HIS SUCCESS TO MAKE MOVIES AND QUARTER MILLION

COMPETITION IN AMATEUR GOLF REVIVED KEENLY BY JONES' WITHDRAWAL

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Nov. 18.—The world of amateur golf looked around today in some bewilderment for a successor to Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., long its king.

Many a divot will fly and many a putt stop on the lip of the cup before golf acknowledges another master such as Bobby Jones, who has retired at the height of his success to make movies and a quarter of a million dollars.

The last amateur championship at Merion demonstrated once more how far ahead of all competitors the plump Atlantan stood out in his mastery of the game. Former champions and coming champions were put out in the early rounds while Jones went on to complete his quadruple triumph for the year, and win his matches by unprecedented margins.

While the golfing world regrets the retirement of Bobby Jones, and golf lovers everywhere will miss the thrill of his brilliant tournament play, opinion today seemed unanimous that he had done a wise thing in capitalizing his fame.

Jones professed to ease the pang of ardent amateurs who might lament his leaving the game by declaring that the movies he will make for Warner Brothers pictures will be strictly "educational" in concept. But the fact remains that he chose the psychological moment, when he had conquered all the golfing worlds there are, to acquire a fortune which should make him independent for life.

"More power to him," was the gist of comment in golfing circles.

The New York Herald Tribune says editorially: "His decision is most understandable, most natural."

The New York Times says: "With dignity he quits the scene upon which he did nothing common or mean."

These comments typify the editorial opinion in the east upon Jones' decision to retire and enter upon a lucrative motion picture contract before devoting himself to the practice of law."

Bobby's contract calls for him to leave for the west coast to make films depicting his golf shots by March 1, and the pictures are to be ready for release at fortnight intervals starting April 15.

There is no question but that Jones definitely renounces his amateur standing by this move. H. H. Ramsay, president-elect of the United States Golf Association, is authority for this. But the Atlantan undoubtedly will live up to his determination never to compete in championships as a professional.

Competition in amateur golf will be revived keenly as a result of Bobby's withdrawal. The question of his successor is one that cannot be answered for many seasons, and it is probably that no golfer ever will bestride the links in such colossal fashion as did the Atlantan.

George Von Elm, whom many ranked as the next best amateur golfer, also retired from amateur competition recently. George Voight, the New Yorker whose amateur status has been questioned at times, appears the strongest of the field. Other leading amateurs are under fire for one reason or another. It might become a question not so much of where shall we find an amateur golf champion as where shall we find an outstanding amateur golfer?"

WINTER FEEDING HINTS FOR DAIRY

Legume Hay and Silage Are Favored in Ration.

"Without doubt, legume hay and silage are essential for economical milk production," says John M. Shaw, of the Iowa State college dairy husbandry department. "The dairyman must realize he is competing with others who are producing dairy products, and without both these good roughages he is handicapping himself at the start. While the dairy cow is, and always will be, a machine for converting farm produced feeds into products of high marketability, yet those who depend on the cow for this work must supply her with the best possible crops which the farm can produce. Frankly, but I believe truly, the man who does not supply his cows with leguminous hays and silage has no right to complain if he fails at dairying. These feeds are part of a dairy farmer's equipment."

"A good grain mixture can be made up of 500 pounds ground corn, 400 pounds ground oats and 100-150 pounds linseed oil meal, or coarsely ground soy beans. This mixture should be fed at the rate of about seven pounds daily per one pound of butterfat produced."

"The silage and hay should be fed liberally, but the cow will ordinarily handle silage at about the rate of three pounds daily per 100 pounds live weight and hay at the rate of one pound daily per 100 pounds live weight."

Dairymen Should Choose Tried Sires for Herds

Dairymen cannot expect to get heifers and cows able to produce 500 to 1,000 pounds fat from a bull if the bull's dams and sires were able to produce only 200 to 400 pounds of fat, according to John M. Evvard, livestock expert. To get high record heifers one must seek bulls with parents having high records.

The answer to the problem, "How am I to tell what a bull's heifers will be able to produce?" is to use the "tried sire," Mr. Evvard states. The "tried sire" is an assured proposition. The sire with the inferior pedigree is a wild gamble as contrasted to the investment type of sire, or "tried sire."

The use of inferior sires for even short periods in the herd will cause shortage of milk and fat production in the herd for generations. Hence it is important that the prospective side of the future milkers should be chosen with extreme care.

The old statement that "the bull is half the herd" is only partly true due to the fact that he soon will dominate the entire herd.

Essential Factors for Producing Quality Milk

It is not difficult to find dairy farms with beautiful buildings and the latest types of equipment that are not producing high grade milk, or to find dairymen of education who, for one reason or another, are not doing so. Proper equipment and good education are valuable and helpful, but back of it all, the dairyman himself is the most important factor. There are many dairymen who produce high quality milk uniformly although they

Have simple equipment. It is the will to do the necessary things well and at the proper time that counts.

The essential factors that underlie the production of high quality milk may be summarized as follows: (1) Clean barns, clean milkhouse, clean milkers, and clean and healthy cows. (2) Proper washing and effective sterilization of all utensils. (3) Prompt cooling of the milk to 60 degrees Fahrenheit or lower and keeping it at that temperature until delivered.

ALONG THE SIDELINES

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Although comparative records give Purdue a decided advantage over Indiana, Coach Noble Kizer is working on the theory Indiana always has one good game in its system each year, and has warned his Purdue Boilermakers against overconfidence.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Coach Kipke believes that Michigan has passed the peak of its form and professes to be worried over Saturday's game with Chicago.

Minneapolis, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Except for the absence of Bill Brownell, Minnesota's squad is in top condition for Saturday's game with Wisconsin. Brownell injured his ankle against Michigan and will be out for several days.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Victory over Chicago has given Illinois' gridiron a new spirit and Coach Bob Zuppke now hopes that his team will stage an "upset" against Ohio State Saturday. Zuppke excused the squad from work yesterday but plans strenuous drills for the balance of the week.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Wisconsin's gridgers today started practice for their final game of the season, against Minnesota Saturday. The Badgers' title hopes were ruined weeks ago but a victory over the Gophers will allow them to finish in the first division.

ARMY - NAVY FOOTBALL GAME TO AID CHARITY

New York, Nov. 18.—(U.P.)—Headquarters of the citizens committee of the Salvation Army, in charge of tickets for the Army-Navy football game for unemployment relief, were opened today in the Biltmore hotel, and mail applications for tickets should be addressed there.

It is estimated that more than $1,000,000 will be netted by the game, with tickets ranging from $5 to $50 in price, and everyone required to pay, including President Hoover. The cadet and midshipmen corps will be admitted free because their parade is to be part of the spectacle.

Press seats cost $50 each, while the committee hopes to obtain $250,000 by auctioning off the broadcasting privileges. The Army and Navy have left arrangements in the hands of the Salvation Army, and the respective athletic associations are turning their attention to the games remaining in their regular schedules.

Pretty Helen Abernathy was acquitted of the murder of her husband, William, after the jury sitting on the case had deliberated two hours. The crime occurred on August 31 at Saratoga, N. Y. While Helen did not deny killing the man, she declared she was "afraid of her life."

Ice Cream Production Continues to Increase

Ice cream production continued to increase last year and reached a grand total of 365,448,000 gallons as compared with 348,040,000 gallons in 1928, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Inasmuch as imports and exports of ice cream are negligible, all of the production is assumed to have been consumed. On this basis, the consumption per person last year was three gallons. Ten years ago, the per capita consumption was a little more than two gallons.

Profitable Cow

Dairy farmers know from experience that the profitable cow is the one producing a large record. The profitable meat-producing animal is the one that is grown quickly. All tests and experiments have proven the importance of obtaining volume in production. To keep animals in profit-making condition requires a liberal supply of succulent and nourishing feed, and the silo can furnish the carbohydrate supply better and cheaper than any other method.

"Fighters Who Fight"

By HARDIN BURNLEY

KID KAPLAN—MERIDEN MAULER—HE ALWAYS PUTS UP A HARD, HONEST BATTLE!

WHEN Jim Maloney battles in Boston or Louis Kaplan goes into action wherever he's carded those present are sure to see real fistic effort from start to finish. Out-of-town, the Hub Irishman may look like a third or fourth rater, but when Shamus does his stuff before the home-town "bys" Maloney looks like a championship possibility. And how that Boston fight mob likes Jim; far, far more than Jack Sharkey. Sure when Shamus quite gallantly tore into the much bigger Primo Carnera a few weeks ago, and took a licking in heroic style, there was tremendous cheers and nary a boo when the three officials gave the decision to Maloney, glory be!

Don't think for a moment that the popular broth of a boy didn't put up a great fight that night. Against a perfectly trained giant weighing 65 pounds more than did Shamus, Boston's favorite heavy-weight proved a real ring hero. Bad sesh to that "Con O'Hara," Shamus might have licked Sharkey or Stribling had either been in the ring with him that night!

As to the bruising, battle-scarred Kaplan, retired world's feather champ, and now an active lightweight—there's a little gamester who keeps milling from ball to ball. The Kid's been doing that for more than ten years—a small edition of Harry Crab if ever there was such! Recently Kaplan appeared to have a clear edge over Justo Suarez in ten rounds at Madison Square Garden but the officials gave the Argentine the verdict as calmly and as firmly as their Boston counterparts handed that "win" over Carnera to Maloney.

Kid Kaplan never fails to give his best. He's never dodged the tough uns nor folded up even after knockout setbacks. He was a real champion, that Connecticut Kid, and it does seem as though he never got the full acclaim his fighting soul and skill deserved.

IRISH AND WILDCATS LOSE FIRST-STRING FULLBACKS

BOTH MINUS STAR EACH IN CRUCIAL GAME

PUG RENTNER, NORTHWESTERN PASSING ACE, OUT OF GAME ON ACCOUNT OF INJURY

SAVOLDI VOLUNTARILY WITH-DRAWS FROM NOTRE DAME, CLOSING GRID CAREER

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Notre Dame and Northwestern today were both minus their first-string fullbacks for Saturday's crucial game between the two undefeated teams at Dwyer stadium, Evanston.

With Pug Rentner, Northwestern's passing ace, already out of the game because of an injured shoulder, "Jumping Joe" Savoldi, Three Oaks, Mich., Italian, voluntarily withdrew from Notre Dame and closed his collegiate gridiron career.

Savoldi's withdrawal yesterday resulted from his marital affairs which brought him into disfavor with university authorities. He was secretly married to Miss Audrey Koehler of South Bend June 3, 1935, but this was not known until he filed a divorce petition November 6 this year, two days before the Pennsylvania game. He withdrew the petition the next day, but too late to prevent university officials from finding it out.

Knut Rockne has four fullbacks left on the squad, but not one of them can carry the ball in a class with the colorful Italian. Savoldi was the leading scorer of the Notre Dame team, having scored eight of its 32 touchdowns for a total of 48 points. He ran a kick-off back 97 yards against Southern Methodist, made three long runs for touchdowns against the Navy, and has never been halted consistently by any team.

The fullbacks left on the Notre Dame squad are Larry Mullins, who will start against Northwestern, Dan Hanley, a dark horse from Butte, Mont., who was kept under cover until last Saturday; Fred Staab of Mad-

son, Wis., and Al Howard of Alhambra, Calif.

In his first appearance in the Notre Dame lineup last week against Drake, Hanley, who stands 6 feet, 1½ inches in height and weighs 195 pounds, ripped off 45 yards for Notre Dame's first touchdown and when he went back into the game in the final period reeled off a 73-yard run.

Although Savoldi's collegiate career is over, he told friends today that he would play in charity football games next month in New York City and Los Angeles with other former Notre Dame players under the guidance of Rockne.

HANLEY REVIVES SPIRIT OF TEAM BY HIS 'SERMON'

Chicago, Nov. 18.—U.P.—Coach Dick Hanley's "sermon" to the Northwestern university football team between halves of the Wisconsin game became the text of Bishop Gordon Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago last night.

Bishop Stewart described to the Episcopal church club the effectiveness with which Wisconsin gained through the Northwestern line in the first half of last Saturday's game.

"The spirit of the team was revived by Hanley between halves," said Bishop Stewart. "I wondered how he did it. Tonight, I found out. This is what he said:

"Boys, you've had a hard season. I don't blame you for being tired. I'm not blaming you a bit, but I have just one question to ask: Have you put your last ounce into it? Have you given all you've got?"

"One of Hanley's star players wept. The team went out and won the game."

BEWILDERED WORLD WONDERS ABOUT SUCCESSOR

RETIRE AT HEIGHT OF HIS SUCCESS TO MAKE MOVIES AND QUARTER MILLION

COMPETITION IN AMATEUR GOLF REVIVED KEENLY BY JONES' WITHDRAWAL

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Nov. 18.—The world of amateur golf looked around today in some bewilderment for a successor to Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., long its king.

Many a divot will fly and many a putt stop on the lip of the cup before golf acknowledges another master such as Bobby Jones, who has retired at the height of his success to make movies and a quarter of a million dollars.

The last amateur championship at Merion demonstrated once more how far ahead of all competitors the plump Atlantan stood out in his mastery of the game. Former champions and coming champions were put out in the early rounds while Jones went on to complete his quadruple triumph for the year, and win his matches by unprecedented margins.

While the golfing world regrets the retirement of Bobby Jones, and golf lovers everywhere will miss the thrill of his brilliant tournament play, opinion today seemed unanimous that he had done a wise thing in capitalizing his fame.

Jones professed to ease the pang of ardent amateurs who might lament his turning his skill into cash by declaring that the movies he will make for Warner Brothers pictures will be strictly "educational" in concept. But the fact remains that he chose the psychological moment, when he had conquered all the golfing worlds there are, to acquire a fortune which should make him independent for life.

"More power to him," was the gist of comment in golfing circles.

The New York Herald Tribune says editorially: "His decision is most understandable, most natural."

The New York Times says: "With dignity he quits the scene upon which he did nothing common or mean."

These comments typify the editorial opinion in the east upon Jones' decision to retire and enter upon a lucrative motion picture contract before devoting himself to the practice of law.

Bobby's contract calls for him to leave for the west coast to make films depicting his golf shots by March 1, and the pictures are to be ready for release at fortnight intervals starting April 15.

There is no question but that Jones definitely renounces his amateur standing in the east upon Jones' decision to retire and enter upon a lucrative motion picture contract before devoting himself to the practice of law.

Competition in amateur golf will be revived keenly as a result of Bobby's withdrawal. The question of his successor is one that cannot be answered for many seasons, and it is probably that no golfer ever will bestride the links in such colossal fashion as did the Atlantan.

George Von Elm, whom many ranked as the next best amateur golfer, also retired from amateur competition recently. George Voight, the New Yorker whose amateur status has been questioned at times, appears the strongest of the field. Other leading amateurs are under fire for one reason or another. It might become a question not so much of where shall we find an amateur golf champion as where shall be find an outstanding amateur golfer?"

WINTER FEEDING HINTS FOR DAIRY

Legume Hay and Silage Are Favored in Ration.

"Without doubt, legume hay and silage are essential for economical milk production," says John M. Shaw, of the Iowa State college dairy husbandry department. "The dairyman must realize he is competing with others who are producing dairy products, and without both these good roughages he is handicapping himself at the start. While the dairy cow is, and always will be, a machine for converting farm produced feeds into products of high marketability, yet those who depend on the cow for this work must supply her with the best possible crops which the farm can produce. Frankly, but I believe truly, the man who does not supply his cows with leguminous hays and silage has no right to complain if he fails at dairying. These feeds are part of a dairy farmer's equipment."

"A good grain mixture can be made up of 500 pounds ground corn, 400 pounds ground oats and 100-150 pounds linseed oil meal, or coarsely ground soy beans. This mixture should be fed at the rate of about seven pounds daily per one pound of butterfat produced."

"The silage and hay should be fed liberally, but the cow will ordinarily handle silage at about the rate of three pounds daily per 100 pounds live weight and hay at the rate of one pound daily per 100 pounds live weight."

Dairymen Should Choose Tried Sires for Herds

Dairymen cannot expect to get helpers and cows able to produce 500 to 1,000 pounds fat from a bull if the bull's dams and sires were able to produce only 200 to 400 pounds of fat, according to John M. Evvard, live stock expert. To get high record helpers one must seek bulls with parents having high records.

The answer to the problem, "How am I to tell what a bull's helpers will be able to produce?" is to use the "tried sire," Mr. Evvard states. The "tried sire" is an assured proposition. The side with the inferior pedigree is a wild gamble as contrasted to the investment type of sire, or "tried sire."

The use of inferior sires for even short periods in the herd will cause shortage of milk and fat production in the herd for generations. Hence it is important that the prospective side of the future milkers should be chosen with extreme care.

The old statement that "the bull is half the herd" is only partly true due to the fact that he soon will dominate the entire herd.

Essential Factors for Producing Quality Milk

It is not difficult to find dairy farms with beautiful buildings and the latest types of equipment; that are not producing high grade milk, or to find dairymen of education who, for one reason or another, are not doing so. Proper equipment and good education are valuable and helpful, but back of it all, the dairymen himself is the most important factor. There are many dairymen who produce high quality milk uniformly although they

Have simple equipment. It is the will to do the necessary things well and at the proper time that counts.

The essential factors that underlie the production of high quality milk may be summarized as follows: (1) Clean barns, clean milkhouse, clean milker, and clean and healthy cows. (2) Proper washing and effective sterilization of all utensils. (3) Prompt cooling of the milk to 60 degrees Fahrenheit or lower and keeping it at that temperature until delivered.

ALONG THE SIDELINES

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 18.—U.P.—Although comparative records give Purdue a decided advantage over Indiana, Coach Noble Kizer is working on the theory Indiana always has one good game in its system each year, and has warned his Purdue Boilermakers against overconfidence.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 18.—U.P.—Coach Kipke believes that Michigan has passed the peak of its form and professes to be worried over Saturday's game with Chicago.

Minneapolis, Nov. 18.—U.P.—Except for the absence of Bill Brownell, Minnesota's squad is in top condition for Saturday's game with Wisconsin. Brownell injured his ankle against Michigan and will be out for several days.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 18.—U.P.—Victory over Chicago has given Illinois' gridiron a new spirit and Coach Bob Zuppke now hopes that his team will stage an "upset" against Ohio State Saturday. Zuppke excused the squad from work yesterday but plans strenuous drills for the balance of the week.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—U.P.—Wisconsin's gridgers today started practice for their final game of the season, against Minnesota Saturday. The Badgers' title hopes were ruined weeks ago but a victory over the Gophers will allow them to finish in the first division.

ARMY - NAVY FOOTBALL GAME TO AID CHARITY

New York, Nov. 18.—U.P.—Headquarters of the citizens committee of the Salvation Army, in charge of tickets for the Army-Navy football game for unemployment relief, were opened today in the Biltmore hotel, and mail applications for tickets should be addressed there.

It is estimated that more than $1,000,000 will be netted by the game, with tickets ranging from $5 to $50 in price, and everyone required to pay, including President Hoover. The cadet and midshipmen corps will be admitted free because their parade is to be part of the spectacle.

Press seats cost $50 each, while the committee hopes to obtain $250,000 by auctioning off the broadcasting privileges. The Army and Navy have left arrangements in the hands of the Salvation Army, and the respective athletic associations are turning their attention to the games remaining in their regular schedules.

Pretty Helen Abernathy was acquitted of the murder of her husband, William, after the jury sitting on the case had deliberated two hours. The crime occurred on August 31 at Saratoga, N. Y. While Helen did not deny killing the man, she declared she was "afraid of her life."

Ice Cream Production Continues to Increase

Ice cream production continued to increase last year and reached a grand total of 365,448,000 gallons as compared with 348,046,000 gallons in 1928, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Inasmuch as imports and exports of ice cream are negligible, all of the production is assumed to have been consumed. On this basis, the consumption per person last year was three gallons. Ten years ago, the per capita consumption was a little more than two gallons.

Profitable Cow

Dairy farmers know from experience that the profitable cow is the one producing a large record. The profitable meat-producing animal is the one that is grown quickly. All tests and experiments have proven the importance of obtaining volume in production. To keep animals in profit-making condition requires a liberal supply of succulent and nourishing feed, and the silo can furnish the carbohydrate supply better and cheaper than any other method.

WHEN Jim Maloney battles in Boston or Louis Kaplan goes into action wherever he's carded those present are sure to see real fistic effort from start to finish. Out-of-town, the Hub Irishman may look like a third or fourth rater, but when Shamus does his stuff before the home-town "bys" Maloney looks like a championship possibility. And now that Boston fight mob likes Jim; far, far more than Jack Sharkey. Sure when Shamus quite gallantly tore into the much bigger Primo Carnera a few weeks ago, and took a licking in hero style, there was something about him that made him a when the three officials gave the decision to Maloney, glory be! Don't think for a moment that the popular bro of a boy didn't put up a great fight that night. Against a perfectly trained giant weighing 65 pounds more than did Shamus, Boston's favorite heavyweight proved a real ring hero. Bad news to that "Con O'Hara," Shamus might have licked Sharkey or Stripling had either been in the ring with him that night!

As to the bruising, battle-scarred Kaplan, retired world's feather champ, and now an active lightweight—there's a little gamester who keeps mulling from bell to bell. The Kid's been doing that for more than ten years—a small edition of Harry Greb if ever there was such! Recently Kaplan appeared to have a clear edge over Justo Suarez in ten rounds at Madison Square Garden but the officials gave the Argentine the verdict as calmly and as firmly as their Boston counterparts handed that "win" over Carnera to Maloney.

Kid Kaplan never fails to give his best. He's never dodged the tough uns nor folded up even after knockout setbacks. He was a real champion, that Connecticut Kid, and it does seem as though he never got the full measure of his fighting soul and skill deserved. Continued. 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

FIVE BRAINONIAN DELEGATES ATTEND PRESS CONVENTION AT ROCHESTER

REPORTER'S EXPERIENCES AT STATE CONCLAVE VARIED AND INTERESTING

SPEECHES, ROUND TABLE DISCUSSIONS, BANQUETS PART OF ENTERTAINMENT

Five delegates representing the Brainerd staff—Amy Markham, Bernice Steinfeldt, Mildred Johnson, Harold Strickler and Kenneth Stimson, left Brainerd Thursday for the state High School Press convention. This convention, which is held annually for the purpose of stimulating an interest in journalism in the high school students, is a very elaborate affair, with speakers chosen from the most outstanding journalists in the country and the whole city where it is to be held working for its success. Many new ideas which sound very worth while were gotten and will be used by the school paper here. The following accounts were written by the four delegates who stayed for the whole convention. Unfortunately, Kenneth Stimson had to return home Friday afternoon.

Meetings and Round Tables

The most important part of the Press Convention, of course, was the meetings or round tables attended. Happily, newspaper work is not the least bit dry, but contrarily, exceedingly exciting and interesting so as a result every article of the speakers and round tables were filled with interest.

Mr. Williams, editor-in-chief of the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch, was the first speaker. He is a very impressive speaker full of many tales of a newspaper man's life and so spoke under the title of "Reminiscences of a Newspaper Man." He kept the unwavering interest of every delegate with anecdotes of his career as a journalist and inspired everyone there with the desire to, also, partake of such interesting happenings as sailing around the world, being stranded in Shanghai, sailing in a privately owned yacht, covering murders, robberies, suicides, etc.

Then came the business of covering round table which of course is very helpful to staff members because if one has any doubt it is usually cleared up by asking questions. The first round table attended was conducted by Miss Kinney, School Editor of the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch. She spoke about feature writing and interviewing which is the most interesting part of newspaper work, stressing the need for curiosity as a source for good feature writing.

Next the delegates attended a round table conducted by students under the heading of "Shortcuts and Discoveries." Caryl Bothe, of Mechanic Arts, spoke about the "Morgue" or in other words about an alumni column which had proved very satisfactory in her school and thus wished to distribute the helpful bit of information. Roland Burke of Johnson High School, St. Paul, told how they distributed their school papers while Milton Hoffman, of North High School, Minneapolis, gave a new plan of having assignment sheets to put an end to work which comes in late. Katherine McBride of South High School, Minneapolis, spoke on "Filling Cuts and Exchanges." All, however, advocated the point system which we are soon to put into effect.

Next morning, sad to relate, the Brainerd delegates were rather late but were on time to attend the first round table of the morning which had at its head Miss Bertha Ferguson of Roosevelt High School, Minneapolis, who showed the relationship between the school and the community. Her main point was to have a community page at least once a semester, which seemed a very good idea. From this round table, the delegates entered the really interesting and important meeting, the students entirely conducting and leading to the meeting, Jack Martin, a noted Boy Scout, led the round table on "How to Develop Staff Responsibility." He outlined four main points which were as follows:

1. System of Awards.
2. Enter paper into competition.
3. Interview high personages.
4. Seeing work in paper.

He was aided by a lively discussion before many delegates thus bringing to a close the interview, leaving us much better informed in Journalism, thanks to embryo journalists.

Arthur Lellman Presides

Friday morning at 9:30 the High School Press Convention was called to order at Rochester by the state president, Arthur Lellman of Forest Lake. The welcome address was given by Robert Montgomery of Rochester. It was extended to the delegates and their advisers. The music was furnished by the Rochester High School orchestra.

The national president of "Quill and Scroll," Miss Helen Blaisdell, gave a talk on its requisites. "You shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free," is the motto which should be held before all high school journalists, she said. The society demands a scholarship as its background—a standing equal to or above that of the average student. There are approximately 500 chapters of the society in the United States.

"Quill and Scroll" is not only a national society, but has international interests. Last year a chapter was established in Liverpool, England, and schools in other foreign countries have expressed a desire to have chapters of the society in their schools.

J. P. Vaughn, Superintendent of Chisholm Public Schools, gave an interesting talk on "School Publication from the Viewpoint of a Superintendent." He said, "The school magazine and newspaper are the mediums through which a school is judged. The publication which has poorly selected material, jokes that sting, objectionable wit, sarcasm and over-use of slang, gives a false impression to the public."

At 1:30 Friday afternoon, the meeting was opened by a musical selection from the girls' glee club. The director of the N. S. P. A. and instructor in journalism at the University of Minnesota, Fred L. Kildow, gave a talk on the national convention. He said he believed any yearbook can be successful on a reasonable budget and by reasonable, he said he meant at least $300. He said that when a smaller amount of money was used, important material was left out or the work was done cheaply and not well. He must have meant was possible to put out an annual at this cost if the school had its own printing press.

As a whole the speakers were very interesting and the delegates that heard them undoubtedly were benefited by them.

Entertained at Banquet

To climax the eventful time and educational value of the convention a banquet was given Friday evening in the Rochester H. S. gym, four of the delegates attending, followed by a dance where modern jazz reigned until replaced by the direct opposite, primitive Indian dances.

Chief Red Eagle and family all decked with feathers, paint, bells, in all such customary signs were first. They demonstrated to the delegate dancers between their dance numbers something considerably different from the modern drags, also one member of his famous family of Sioux showed some outstanding feats in rope spinning.

The banquet was, of course, the crowning feature of the convention. Sixty-seven schools were here represented by four hundred delegates who were all primed for a good time and lots of eats, all of which were furnished upon being ushered to our seats, where we discovered a small bronze remembrance of the convention and a program for the dance which followed. Between the fruit cocktail and ice cream we were entertained by Dr. A. F. Hughes, president of Hamline University, in a short speech which portrayed his magnetic personality. "The Lateral Pass of Good Will." Another speaker of note was Miss Clara Berdon, state president of "Quill and Scroll," Honorary Press association. These speeches were sandwiched between musical selections from the Rochester H. S. orchestra and glee club, immediately followed by a dance at which everyone seemed to bump the other couple in time with the music, which was furnished by Harry and His Pirates, after which everyone was started home. Of course it always takes a long time to get home, especially in a strange town.

Tour Through City

The delegates were taken on a conducted tour of the city Friday morning, first passing many imposing doctors' homes; incidentally this residential district was very cleverly named "Pill Hill."

At St. Mary's Park they stopped for a few minutes and viewed the city. It would seem that "Lover's Lane" was a very popular place. (Not only because it leads to the air port and the Monarch canning factory.)

The homes owned by the Mayo brothers are very beautiful homes. They have their own "Green House" and park.

The state hospital was also visited by the delegates and found quite interesting.

It must be true that 330 gallons of gasoline, 110 quarts of oil and approximately 20,000 wire cracks were needed to make the tour a success (as stated in the Rochet). The latter must be especially true because in our car alone the driver made at least one-half that number.

Later in the day, a conducted tour of the Mayo clinic was enjoyed by the delegates. Plummer's Hall, a very beautiful place, was filled to its capacity, while one of the representatives of the clinic gave the history. The library of the clinic is lined with books used only by the doctors who are studying. A Carillon concert was given by James Drummond. These bells were imported from England, and the cost was $2,000,000. The largest bell weighs 7,846 pounds and the smallest 168 pounds.

Students from Country Visit Various Classes

As a result of talks given by Miss Tornstrom at the various country schools last year, a group of eighth grade students from Miss Myrtle Wilson's country school visited the high school last Wednesday. The purpose of the visit (as well as of the talks which promoted it) was to make the country students acquainted with the school so they won't be so afraid and new when they do start in as Freshmen. If they have some idea of the school and its various classes and departments, it will be much simpler for them to adjust themselves.

At different times throughout the year, other country school students will probably visit the high school.

VARIOUS TEACHERS' TRAINING DEPT'S. MEET HERE FRIDAY

MISS ANNA SWENSON, STATE SUPERVISOR, TALKS TO CLASSES HERE

In years to come, the Teacher Training Department of Brainerd, in their pleasant recollections of student days, will undoubtedly consider, among the high lights of their memory, the event which took place last Friday when the Training Departments of Pine River, Crosby, Ironton and Little Falls, came here for a joint meeting.

With the students were the city superintendents from several of the visiting towns, Mr. Molstad, our newly elected county superintendent, the training instructors, and Miss Anna Swenson, State Supervisor of Normal Departments.

During the course of the day, demonstration lessons were given in the auditorium by each of the departments present. All were exceedingly well given, and displayed much budding talent along educational lines. In correlation with the Brainerd demonstration of music routine of the city was the presentation of a group of memory songs by the third grade of the Lincoln school. These little people sang very commendably, and displayed exceedingly fine discipline as well as musical training.

Along with other splendid speeches made by the visiting superintendents, was a talk by Miss Swenson, State Supervisor.

For those who had not had occasion to enjoy hearing Miss Swenson before, a special treat presented itself. For those who had made her acquaintance before, various new and delectable inspirations were in store. Miss Swenson's remarks are often left until the last of the day, when people seem more or less in demand of something extraordinarily interesting.

At twelve o'clock luncheon was served in the cafeteria by the domestic science girls. Four students sat at each of nineteen tables, one table representing four towns. About seventy persons were served, five of whom were training boys. One may imagine the peculiar circumstances in which these boys imagine themselves, when they realized the incompetency of the supply, to fulfill the demand of fifty-five girls. However the conversation at five different tables were occasionally "spiced" by remarks from the stronger sex.

Much regret was apparent as the joyful students left the scene of new friendship and pleasant instructive recreation.

Tri-Hi Girls Divide Into Four Basketball Teams

Four basketball teams were selected at the Tri-Hi meeting, Thursday. The names of the girls who were interested in this sport were put in a hat and drawn out into four teams. Each team will meet and elect its captain. They will play one another for the championship. The Tri-Hi is trying out a little scheme to increase the club's finances. The girls are divided into four groups and each group is to make at least ten dollars by Christmas. A spirit of rivalry between the groups is sensed which will aid in the carrying out of this plan.

YE EDITOR

The editor devotes her column to the delegates who attended the press convention at Rochester. They write the following message:

To the Brainerd staff and the high school:
 We wish to thank those who appointed us as delegates and those who made our trip possible financially, for the opportunity they gave us. We will do our best to put into practice the ideas gained there and help to improve both the weekly and annual Brainerdians to show our gratitude.

SHORTHAND CLASSES CONTEST FOR TREAT

Miss Ruthe's shorthand II classes are having a contest, in which each class is divided into two parts. Each part is endeavoring to obtain higher marks than the other. At the end of this six weeks the instructor will determine the winner. The losing side of each class will entertain the other. Due to the fact that only two weeks remain of this six weeks the entertainment will not be as elaborate but it is planned to carry the contest through the next six weeks and at the close of the latter the losing side will entertain the winners in a royal manner. The winning side of one class will combat the winning class of the other and Miss Ruthe will determine the winner of the two classes. Get busy, students!

STUDENTS CAPER AND FROLIC IN QUEER COSTUMES

EVERY TYPE OF DRESS ILLUSTRATED BY REVELLERS AT MASQUERADE PARTY

Cowboys, Indians, queer old-fashioned ladies, gypsies, clowns, Spaniards, sailors, "a colahed bo," Japanese ladies, farmers, boys with oddly feminine walks, and many other unusual-looking people came to the gym last Friday evening to take part in a costume party. There were so few idle moments at this social event that it lived up to its name of "Fun Carnival." Members of the faculty proved their good sportsmanship by appearing in costume equally as clever as any there (and by cutting up as much too).

About 11 o'clock a lunch was served in the cafeteria, consisting of a delicious fruit salad, date-nut sandwiches and cocoa.

Upon the return to the gym, the president of the Senior class, Gerald Cass, presented Doris Geist and Ferdinand Fredrickson, both garbed as Spaniards, with prizes for being the best dressed. Olive Hemsworth, as a boy, received one of the prizes for the funniest costume, and Mardelle Cunningham was presented with the prize for the other funniest dressed. Her hair was done in tiny pigtails all over her head. She wore an abbreviated dress, red stockings, black shoes, and for a mask the top of a red stocking with holes slit for eyes and mouth. Mr. Penrose, one of the Junior advisers, got much deserved honorable mention.

A grand march led by the two class presidents, Gerald Cass and Drexel Geist, and their lady friends, Evelyn Anderson and Arline Hagberg, followed to the tune of the popular favorite, "Betty Coed."

At 12 o'clock the party came to a close. It was pronounced a good time by all, and here's hoping there will be another soon.

Y. Members to Attend Older Boys' Conference

At a meeting of the Senior Hi-Y Chapter I Wednesday evening Arthur Hedlund, Israel Perlman, Maurice Larson, and John Dahl were appointed on the food committee to serve at the next meeting which will be held tomorrow night at 6:15.

Mr. Peterson, the Y. adviser discussed and answered any questions pertaining to the Older Boys' Conference to be held November 28, 29, and 30. About two-thirds of the members of the Hi-Y are going.

A report on the Hi-Y social, the week previous, was given by Carl Holvick, treasurer.

Dumb: "How come you quit the orchestra?"
 Bell: "I wanted to get out of the racket."

There are other things, no doubt, you should be doing instead of reading this.

He who laughs last often wonders what the joke is about.

Juniors Win Interclass Volleyball Tournament

On last Thursday evening, the Juniors defeated Sophomores in an easy game, for their third straight win and the copping of the Interclass volleyball tournament for girls.

From the very beginning of the game the 3rd year girls had the edge on the Sophs, and it was only a matter of how big a score they could pile up before the game ended. The Sophs played hard but were constantly outplayed and lost to a better team. The score was 37-22.

The Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors all tied for 2nd place in the tournament. They each won one game and lost two.

N. Y. CITY CAMP FIRE EXECUTIVE TALKS TO GIRLS

MISS McKELLER SPEAKS BEFORE GIRLS AND GUARDIANS; IS FEET AT DINNER

Miss McKeller, national Camp Fire Executive from New York City, spoke last Thursday at the high school to all the Camp Fire girls of this city.

Miss McKeller said that when you think of Camp Fire you should have the feeling that you are members of a world wide organization. There are Camp Fire Groups all over the United States and in the 14 foreign countries.

She stated there are many reasons for liking Camp Fire work. One of them is that there is much variety in it. Each girl likes something different. What one girl likes her friend may not like. What a girl likes she can find in Camp Fire. Every girl has a chance to carry out her own ideas and has a chance to develop her special talent.

Each girl when starting in Camp Fire tries to work up to the very highest rank. The three ranks are the Woodgatherers' rank, Firemakers' rank and the Torchbearers' rank. Miss McKeller spoke of these ranks as milestones on the Camp Fire Highway and explained the meaning of the symbols, which each girl has the opportunity to earn.

She also spoke to a group of women of this city who are acting as Camp Fire sponsors. She explained the ideas gained from Camp Fire Work.

After speaking to the girls and Camp Fire sponsors, Miss McKeller was entertained by the guardians of the groups of this city at a dinner at Archer's.

Grid Squad Gives Program to Close the Season

Under the supervision of Coach Dammann, the program started this morning in the auditorium. Calling up all those who participated in the games and those who went out for football, on the stage, he told the student body and the players how much he appreciated their loyal support. Ted Franks, the noted piano player of the team, played a selection. The captain, Jim Garvey, was then called on to speak. As this is his last year at football, he wished the team next year good luck, and thanked the students for supporting the team.

Mr. Cobb, the next speaker, told the student body that this year's team was the best one that the school ever had, on account of the large number going out for it. He then asked the students if they cared to have season tickets for basketball games, and all agreed unanimously on it.

A review of the games was given by Stuart Patterson, the sports reporter for the Brainerdian. He stressed the fact that there would be numerous good players left for next year.

As representing the juniors, Elmer Foster said that the seniors wouldn't be missed, as they had many good players left. Gene McPherson, sophomore, said that they would work next year, in order that the team would win more victories.

As a conclusion to the program Coach Dammann said that he wanted to see as many boys out for basketball as there were out for football.

EXCHANGE

The Brainerd high school is glad to have among its exchanges the Zumbrota publication of Zumbrota high school; Miss Herwig being the adviser. There were five delegates too at the Press Convention from Zumbrota.

Brainerd high compliments Miss Herwig on her supervision of the Zumbrota high students should consider themselves very fortunate. Her work with our "Brainerdian" was worthy of much praise.

We read in the Mac Weekly, Macalester college paper, that Mark Patterson is president of the Science club. That's a good start, Mark!

C.-I. DEFEATS WARRIORS BY 19 POINTS IN SEASON'S LAST GAME

SIDELIGHTS ON THE CONVENTION

One not only learns about journalism at a convention but about many other things and Oh! (I was going to put in "boy" but we learned that we should not use slang) for embarrassing incidents one encounters! Amy and I stayed in a private house which, by the way, was written up in the special "Rochet" edition as follows: "It seems strange but about 89 per cent of the 'little ones' taken into private homes were girls. Could it be true that their parental authorities couldn't bear to see their little charges at a strange hotel?"

But to go on with the story of our sideline course in opening locks, we arrived home about 9:30 p. m. (???) and as there was a night lock on the door, it had to be tested to see if the door was locked or open. Then we fixed the lock that we might enter (so we thought) and closed it. Then we tried the door to get in but lo! behold! we had locked ourselves out! We crept into bed in the wee, wee hours of the morning after awakening the whole household, very much embarrassed and more learned in picking or opening night locks.

Milly, Amy, and I also learned to assert ourselves, especially when we were to go on a conducted tour through Rochester. A beautiful Buick drove up—and believe it or not, we went sightseeing in the above said big, beautiful Buick. N. B. We also went sightseeing in the evenings. Ask us! Do we know Rochester!

Harold is very able to take care of himself now, especially when deserted by Kenneth and left to the mercies of the cruel world. He must have succeeded in finding his way about for I saw him this morning looking better than ever.

At that he did better than Amy and I, for, believe it or not, we got lost! As I was remarking how I knew Minneapolis and its suburbs while riding on a street car, the conductor approached us and said, "Are you girls lost, by any chance?"

Imagine our embarrassment when looking out the window we found out that we were entering the car barns! We made an exceedingly speedy exit and called a cab! Thus we learned to travel in Minneapolis.

We also stayed at the Andrews Hotel one night and ahem! accustomed as we were to hotels—we had to have a bellboy lead us out of the entangled web of corridors.

Outside of these few incidents which were detrimental in showing our complete sophistication, we had one "wow of a time!"

Vodvil to Be Given a Week from Tonight

The Brainerdian Vodvil, to be presented on Tuesday, Nov. 25 at the high school promises to be of unusual interest and is certainly of an entirely different type from the entertainments of preceding years. Mystery - dancing - humor - black outs - straight - all these are part of the program. Music swells in ever increasing volume until it fills the auditorium; the click of castanets and the tap of nimble heels and toes upon the floor charms both the ear and eye, shrieks and groans and flashing lights lend variety to the program. Remember the date—November 25 at 8 o'clock.

LIVE FOWLS FEATURE BIOLOGY BIRD STUDY

Bird study in Miss Laipple's Biology classes has been made very interesting to the students by the study of live and mounted species of birds.

The Biology students were especially interested in the live species of the mallard ducks and love birds which were brought by Julius Knutson and Lois Thabes, respectively.

A mounted specimen of the Great Blue Heron and the Whistling Swan were contributed to the Biology Department by Richard Rice.

To sum up the study, colored slides of the various summer and winter residents were shown to the students.

Art Students Receive Compliments on Work

Last week Miss True received a letter, representative, complimenting her and her from one of the Binney Smith representatives, the art students on their good work done by the local art students which his company displayed at the convention. He also stated that the posters of the art classes received many favorable comments from those attending the convention.

HOME TEAM LOSES TO SUPERIOR AGGREGATION AFTER DESPERATE STRUGGLE

Staging a plucky battle to the final gun, Coach Dammann's Warriors lost their last game of the season to an undefeated Crosby-Ironton team by a 19-0 score. The "Blue and White" boys played the best game of their season and gave C.-I. a much harder fight than the score indicates. Coach Dammann's men hit the line hard and effectively, playing a smart game of football but were unable to score against the heavier C.-I. aggregation.

Outstanding in the Brainerd ranks both in attack and defense was Moe, veteran tackle, who played like a demon Tuesday, breaking up many C.-I. plays before they got started. Captain Garvey, playing at the other tackle, stopped many of the opponents' plays on the line of scrimmage. In fact, the whole team: Franks, Hass, Koock, Wygle brothers in the line and Foster, Heikkinen, Gabiou, Hogan and Schuety in the backfield, played their season's best game against the C.-I. aggregation.

The second quarter of this battle was decidedly in favor of the Warriors. Twice in this one period Coach Dammann's men advanced the ball into scoring distance, the first time losing out because of a 15-yard penalty and next by a costly fumble.

C.-I. made its first touchdown in the first ten minutes of play. After C.-I. had been held for the first two downs they completed a 25-yard pass to put them well on the way to the Brainerd goal. Then by steady power drives into the line, occasionally with a nice end run, they put the ball over the line for a touchdown. And by running the end, they secured the extra point, making the score 7-0.

The Warriors, not at all disheartened by this first touchdown, came back strong in the second period and pushed the ball down into the C.-I. territory to about the 15-yard line. Then they were penalized 15 yards for pushing their own man through the line. On the next three plays they regained this yardage but lost the ball before they were able to gain first down. Then C.-I. punted out of danger. Again Brainerd pushed the ball into the enemy's territory way up to the 5-yard line, there to fumble and lose the ball. The half ended with the score: Brainerd, 0; C.-I., 7.

Warriors Doomed to Defeat

On the first play of the second half Petraborg, big C.-I. quarterback, dashed around the Brainerd right end, dodged some Brainerd men and then closely pursued by a Warrior tackler, pulled over the line for a 70-yard run and another touchdown, making the score 13 to 0. The attempt for the extra point was fumbled.

Then again in the final period the C.-I. team pushed down the field with steady, consistent plunging and set the ball over the line for the final touchdown, making the score 19-0. The signals for the extra point took too long so the C.-I. team lost its chance for the extra point.

As much as the score might indicate that the Warriors were completely outplayed, they put up a valiant fight which made the outcome uncertain until the gun cracked that ended the tilt.

The line-ups were as follows:

Brainerd—Wygle, Lukens, re; Garvey, Patterson, rt; Koock, Dahl, rg; Franks, McPherson, Swanson, c; Hass, Wareing, lg; Moe, it; B. Wygle, Marshall, Vaughn, lb; Hogan, lb; Foster, rb; Gabiou, Templeton, qb; Schuety, Heikkinen, fb.

Crosby-Ironton—Anderson, re; Van Evert, rt; Kukulich, rg; Elmer, c; Irvitch, lg; Dobervich, lt; Stark, lb; Greich, rb; Olson, lb; Petraborg, qb; Perlich, fb.

Summary of Season

Twelve Seniors that have added much to the team will graduate this year. These are Hogan, Marshall, Garvey, Guin, Moe, Wareing, Schuety, Patterson, Lukens, Brown, Vierba, and Stanley. These boys have played real football this year and they'll leave a huge gap in the Warrior team when Coach Dammann calls them together next fall.

The Warriors' schedule this fall has been fairly stiff. They have played seven games, netting:

Wadena, 0; B. H. S., 0.
 Bemidji, 12; B. H. S., 0.
 Staples, 0; B. H. S., 20.
 Aitkin, 7; B. H. S., 0.
 Little Falls, 19; B. H. S., 6.
 Milaca, 0; B. H. S., 45.
 Crosby-Ironton, 19; B. H. S., 0.

With the total points: B. H. S., 71; opponents, 57.
 Crosby-Ironton is district champion this year, being undefeated. The teams in the order in which they stand are: Crosby-Ironton, Aitkin, Little Falls, Brainerd, Wadena and Staples.

FIVE BRAINONIAN DELEGATES ATTEND PRESS CONVENTION AT ROCHESTER

REPORTER'S EXPERIENCES AT STATE CONCLAVE VARIED AND INTERESTING

SPEECHES, ROUND TABLE DISCUSSIONS, BANQUETS PART OF ENTERTAINMENT

Five delegates representing the Brainonian staff—Amy Markham, Bernice Steinfeldt, Mildred Johnson, Harold Strickler and Kenneth Stimson left Brainerd Thursday for the state High School Press convention. This convention, which is held annually for the purpose of stimulating an interest in journalism in the high school students, is a very elaborate affair, with speakers chosen from the most outstanding journalists in the country and the whole city where it is to be held working for its success. Many new ideas which sound very worth while were gotten and will be used by the school paper here. The following accounts were written by the four delegates who stayed for the whole convention. Unfortunately, Kenneth Stimson had to return home Friday afternoon.

Meetings and Round Tables
 The most important part of the Press Convention, of course, was the meetings or round tables attended. Happily, newspaper work is not the least bit dry, but contrarily, exceedingly exciting and interesting so as a result every article of the speakers and round tables were filled with interest.

Mr. Williams, editor-in-chief of the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch, was the first speaker. He is a very impressive speaker full of many tales of a newspaper man's life and so spoke under the title of "Reminiscences of a Newspaper Man." He kept the unwavering interest of every delegate with anecdotes of his career as a journalist and inspired everyone there with the desire to, also, partake of such interesting happenings as sailing around the world, being stranded in Shanghai, sailing in a privately owned yacht, covering murders, robberies, suicides, etc.

Then came the business of covering round table which of course is very helpful to staff members because one has any doubt it is usually cleared up by asking questions. The first round table attended was conducted by Miss Kinney, School Editor of the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch. She spoke about feature writing and interviewing which is the most interesting part of newspaper work, stressing the need for curiosity as a source for good feature writing.

Next the delegates attended a round table conducted by students under the heading of "Shortcuts and Discoveries." Caryl Bothe, of Mechanic Arts, spoke about the "Morgue" or in other words about an alumni column which had proved very satisfactory in her school and thus wished to distribute the helpful bit of information. Roland Burke of Johnson High School, St. Paul, told how they distributed their school papers while Milton Hoffman, of North High School, Minneapolis, gave a new plan of having assignment sheets to put an end to work which comes in late. Katherine McBride of South High School, Minneapolis, spoke on "Filing Cuts and Exchanges." All, however, advocated the point system which we are soon to put into effect.

Next morning, sad to relate, the Brainerd delegates were rather late but were on time to attend the first round table of the morning which had at its head Miss Bertha Ferguson of Roosevelt High School, Minneapolis, who showed the relationship between the school and the community. Her Mina point was have a community page at least once a semester, which seemed a very good idea. From this round table, the delegates entered the really interesting and important meeting, the students entirely conducting and lending to the meeting, Jack Martin, a noted Boy Scout, led the round table on "How to Develop Staff Responsibility." He outlined four main points which were as follows:

1. System of Awards.
2. Enter paper into competition.
3. Interview high personages.
4. Seeing work in paper.

He was aided by a lively discussion before many delegates thus bringing to a close the interview, leaving us much better informed in Journalism, thanks to embryo journalists.

Arthur Lellman Presides
 Friday morning at 9:30 the High School Press Convention was called to order at Rochester by the state president, Arthur Lellman of Forest Lake. The welcome address was given by Rert Montgomery of Rochester. It was extended to the delegates and their advisers. The music was furnished by the Rochester High School orchestra.

The national president of "Quill and Scroll," Miss Helen Blaisdell, gave a talk on its requisites. "You shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free," is the motto which should be held before all high school journalists, she said. The society demands a scholarship as its background—a standing equal to or above that of the average student. There are approximately 500 chapters of the society in the United States.

"Quill and Scroll" is not only a national society, but has international interests. Last year a chapter was established in Liverpool, England, and schools in other foreign countries have expressed a desire to have chapters of the society in their schools.

J. P. Vaughn, Superintendent of Chisholm Public Schools, gave an interesting talk on "School Publication from the Viewpoint of a Superintendent." He said, "The school magazine and newspaper are the mediums through which a school is judged. The publication which has poorly selected material, jokes that sting, objectionable wit, sarcasm and over-use of slang, gives a false impression to the public."

At 1:30 Friday afternoon, the meeting was opened by a musical selection from the girls' glee club. The director of the N. S. P. A. and instructor in journalism at the University of Minnesota, Fred L. Kildow, gave a talk on the national convention. He said he believed any yearbook can be successful on a reasonable budget and by reasonable, he said he meant at least $300. He said that when a smaller amount of money was used, important material was left out or the work was done cheaply and not well. He must have meant was possible to put out an annual at this cost if the school had its own printing press.

As a whole the speakers were very interesting and the delegates that heard them undoubtedly were benefited by them.

Entertained at Banquet
 To climax the eventful time and educational value of the convention a banquet was given Friday evening in the Rochester H. S. gym, four of the delegates attending, followed by a dance where modern jazz reigned until replaced by the direct opposite, primitive Indian dances.

Chief Red Eagle and family all bedecked with feathers, paint, bells, in all such customary signs were first. They demonstrated to the delegate dancers between their dance numbers something considerably different from the modern drags, also one member of his famous family of Sioux showed some outstanding feats in rope spinning.

The banquet was, of course, the crowning feature of the convention. Sixty-seven schools were here represented by four hundred delegates who were all primed for a good time and lots of eats, all of which were furnished upon being ushered to our seats, where we discovered a small bronze remembrance of the convention and a program for the dance which followed. Between the fruit cocktail and ice cream we were entertained by Dr. A. F. Hughes, president of Hamline University, in a short speech which portrayed his magnetic personality, "The Lateral Pass of Good Will." Another speaker of note was Miss Clara Berdon, state president of "Quill and Scroll," Honorary Press association. These speeches were sandwiched between musical selections from the Rochester H. S. orchestra and glee club, immediately followed by a dance at which everyone seemed to burp at other couple in time with the music, which was furnished by Harry and His Pirates, after which everyone was started home. Of course it always takes a long time to get home, especially in a strange town.

Tour Through City
 The delegates were taken on a conducted tour of the city Friday morning, first passing many imposing doctors' homes; incidentally this residential district was very cleverly named "Pill Hill."

At St. Mary's Park they stopped for a few minutes and viewed the city. It would seem that "Lover's Lane" was a very popular place. (Not only because it leads to the air port and the Monarch canning factory.)

The homes owned by the Mayo brothers are very beautiful homes. They have their own "Green House" and park.

The state hospital was also visited by the delegates and found quite interesting.

It must be true that 330 gallons of gasoline, 110 quarts of oil and approximately 20,000 wise cracks were needed to make the tour a success (as stated in the Rochet). The latter must be especially true because in our car alone the driver made at least one-half that number.

Later in the day, a conducted tour of the Mayo clinic was enjoyed by the delegates. Plummer's Hall, a very beautiful place, was filled to its capacity, while one of the representatives of the clinic gave the history. The library of the clinic is lined with books used only by the doctors who are studying. A Carillon concert was given by James Drummond. These bells were imported from England, and the cost was $2,000,000. The largest bell weighs 7,846 pounds and the smallest 168 pounds.

Students from Country Visit Various Classes

As a result of talks given by Miss Tornstrom at the various country schools last year, a group of eighth grade students from Miss Myrtle Wilson's country school visited the high school last Wednesday. The purpose of the visit (as well as of the talks which promoted it) was to make the country students acquainted with the school so they won't be so afraid and new when they do start in as Freshmen. If they have some idea of the school and its various classes and departments, it will be much simpler for them to adjust themselves.

At different times throughout the year, other country school students will probably visit the high school.

VARIOUS TEACHERS' TRAINING DEPT'S. MEET HERE FRIDAY

MISS ANNA SWENSON, STATE SUPERVISOR, TALKS TO CLASSES HERE

In years to come, the Teacher Training Department of Brainerd, in their pleasant recollections of student days, will undoubtedly consider, among the high lights of their memory, the event which took place last Friday when the Training Departments of Pine River, Crosby, Ironton and Little Falls, came here for a joint meeting.

With the students were the city superintendents from several of the visiting towns, Mr. Molstad, our newly elected county superintendent, the training instructors, and Miss Anna Swenson, State Supervisor of Normal Departments.

During the course of the day, demonstration lessons were given in the auditorium by each of the departments present. All were exceedingly well given, and displayed much budding talent along educational lines. In correlation with the Brainerd demonstration of music routine of the city was the presentation of a group of memory songs by the third grade of the Lincoln school. These little people sang very commendably, and displayed exceedingly fine discipline as well as musical training.

Along with other splendid speeches made by the visiting superintendents, was a talk by Miss Swenson, State Supervisor.

For those who had not had occasion to enjoy hearing Miss Swenson before, a special treat presented itself. For those who had made her acquaintance before, various new and desirous inspirations were in store. Miss Swenson's remarks are often left until the last of the day, when people seem more or less in demand of something extraordinarily interesting.

At twelve o'clock luncheon was served in the cafeteria by the domestic science girls. Four students sat at each of nineteen tables, one table representing four towns. About seventy persons were served, five of whom were training boys. One may imagine the peculiar circumstances in which these boys imagine themselves, when they realized the incompetency of the supply, to fulfill the demand of fifty-five girls. However the conversation at five different tables were occasionally "spiced" by remarks from the stronger sex.

Much regret was apparent as the joyful students left the scene of new friendship and pleasant instructive recreation.

Tri-Hi Girls Divide Into Four Basketball Teams

Four basketball teams were selected at the Tri-Hi meeting, Thursday. The names of the girls who were interested in this sport were put in a hat and drawn out into four teams. Each team will meet and elect its captain. They will play one another for the championship. The Tri-Hi is trying out a little scheme to increase the club's finances. The girls are divided into four groups and each group is to make at least ten dollars by Christmas. A spirit of rivalry between the groups is sensed which will aid in the carrying out of this plan.

SHORTHAND CLASSES CONTEST FOR TREAT

Miss Ruthe's shorthand II classes are having a contest, in which each class is divided into two parts. Each part is endeavoring to obtain higher marks than the other. At the end of this six weeks the instructor will determine the winner. The losing side of each class will entertain the other. Due to the fact that only two weeks remain of this six weeks the entertainment will not be as elaborate but it is planned to carry the contest through the next six weeks and at the close of the latter the losing side will entertain the winners in a royal manner. The winning side of one class will combat the winning class of the other and Miss Ruthe will determine the winner of the two classes. Get busy, students!

STUDENTS CAPER AND FROLIC IN QUEER COSTUMES

EVERY TYPE OF DRESS ILLUSTRATED BY REVELLERS AT MASQUERADE PARTY

Cowboys, Indians, queer old-fashioned ladies, gypsies, clowns, Spaniards, sailors, "a colahed bo", Japanese ladies, farmers, boys with oddity femal-looking people came to the gym last Friday evening to take part in a costume party. There were so few idle moments at this social event that it lived up to its name of "Fun Carnival." Members of the faculty provided their good sportsmanship by appearing in costume equally as clever as any there (and by cutting up as much too).

At about 11 o'clock a lunch was served in the cafeteria, consisting of a delicious fruit salad, date-nut sandwiches and cocoa.

Upon the return to the gym, the president of the Senior class, Gerald Cass, presented Doris Geist and Ferdinand Fredrickson, both garbed as Spaniards, with prizes for being the best dressed. Olive Hensworth, as a boy, received one of the prizes for the funniest costume, and Mardelle Cunningham was presented with the prize for the other funniest dressed. Her hair was done in tiny pigtails all over her head. She wore an abbreviated dress, red stockings, black shoes, and for a mask the top of a red stocking with holes slit for eyes and mouth. Mr. Penrose, one of the Junior advisers, got much deserved honorable mention.

A grand march led by the two class presidents, Gerald Cass and Drexel Geist, and their lady friends, Evelyn Anderson and Arline Hagberg, followed to the tune of the popular favorite, "Betty Co-ed."

At 12 o'clock the party came to a close. It was pronounced a good time by all, and here's hoping there will be another soon.

Y. Members to Attend Older Boys' Conference

At a meeting of the Senior Hi-Y Chapter I Wednesday evening Arthur Hedlund, Israel Perlman, Maurice Larson, and John Dahl were appointed on the food committee to serve at the next meeting which will be held tomorrow night at 6:15.

Mr. Peterson, the Y. adviser discussed and answered any questions pertaining to the Older Boys' Conference to be held November 28, 29, and 30. About two-thirds of the members of the Hi-Y are going.

A report on the Hi-Y social, the week previous, was given by Carl Holvick, treasurer.

Dumb: "How come you quit the orchestra?"
 Bell: "I wanted to get out of the racket."

There are other things, no doubt, you should be doing instead of reading this.

He who laughs last often wonders what the joke is about.

Juniors Win Interclass Volleyball Tournament

On last Thursday evening, the Juniors defeated Sophomores in an easy game, for their third straight win and the copping of the Interclass volleyball tournament for girls.

From the very beginning of the game the 3rd year girls had the edge on the Sophs, and it was only a matter of how big a score they could pile up before the game ended. The Sophs played hard but were constantly outplayed and lost to a better team. The score was 37-22.

The Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors all tied for 2nd place in the tournament. They each won one game and lost two.

N. Y. CITY CAMP FIRE EXECUTIVE TALKS TO GIRLS

MISS McKELLER SPEAKS BEFORE GIRLS AND GUARDIANS; IS FETED AT DINNER

Miss McKeller, national Camp Fire Executive from New York City, spoke last Thursday at the high school to all the Camp Fire girls of this city.

Miss McKeller said that when you think of Camp Fire you should have the feeling that you are members of a world wide organization. There are Camp Fire Groups all over the United States and in the 14 foreign countries.

She stated there are many reasons for liking Camp Fire work. One of them is that there is much variety in it. Each girl likes something different. What one girl likes her friend may not like. What a girl likes she can find in Camp Fire. Every girl has a chance to carry out her own ideas and has a chance to develop her special talent.

Each girl when starting in Camp Fire tries to work up to the very highest rank. The three ranks are the Woodgatherers' rank, Firemakers' rank and the Torchbearers' rank. Miss McKeller spoke of these ranks as milestones on the Camp Fire Highway and explained the meaning of her symbols, which each girl has the opportunity to earn.

She also spoke to a group of women of this city who are acting as Camp Fire sponsors. She explained the ideas gained from Camp Fire work.

After speaking to the girls and Camp Fire sponsors, Miss McKeller was entertained by the guardians of the groups of this city at a dinner at Archer's.

Grid Squad Gives Program to Close the Season

Under the supervision of Coach Dammann, the program started this morning in the auditorium. Calling up all those who participated in the games and those who went out for football, on the stage, he told the student body and the players how much he appreciated their loyal support. Ted Franks, the noted piano player of the team, played a selection. The captain, Jim Garvey, was then called on to speak. As this is his last year at football, he wished the team next year good luck, and thanked the students for supporting the team.

Mr. Cobb, the next speaker, told the student body that this year's team was the best one that the school ever had, on account of the large number going out for it. He then asked the students if they cared to have season tickets for basketball games, and all agreed unanimously on it.

A review of the games was given by Stuart Patterson, the sports reporter for the Brainonian. He stressed the fact that there would be numerous good players left for next year.

As representing the juniors, Elmer Foster said that the seniors wouldn't be missed, as they had many good players left. Gene McPherson, sophomore, said that they would work next year, in order that the team would win more victories.

As a conclusion to the program Coach Dammann said that he wanted to see as many boys out for basketball as there were out for football.

EXCHANGE

The Brainerd high school is glad to have among its exchanges the Zumbrota publication of Zumbrota high school; Miss Herwig being the adviser. There were five delegates too at the Press Convention from Zumbrota.

Brainerd high compliments Miss Herwig on her supervision of the Zumbrota high students should consider themselves very fortunate. Her work with our "Brainonian" was worthy of much praise.

We read in the Mac Keekly, Macalester college paper, that Mark Patterson is president of the Science club. That's a good start, Mark!

C.I. DEFEATS WARRIORS BY 19 POINTS IN SEASON'S LAST GAME

SIDELIGHTS ON THE CONVENTION

One not only learns about journalism at a convention but about many other things. Oh! (I was going to put in "boy" but we learned that we should not use slang) for embarrassing incidents one encounters! Amy and I stayed in a private house which, by the way, was written up in the special "Rochet" edition as follows:

"It seems strange but about 89 per cent of the 'little ones' taken into private homes were girls. Could it be true that their parental authorities couldn't bear to see their little charges at a strange hotel?"

But to go on with the story of our sideline course in opening locks, we arrived home about 9:30 p. m. (????) and as there was a night lock on the door, it had to be tested to see if the door was locked or open. Then we fixed the lock that we might enter so we thought and closed it. Then we tried the door to get in but lo! behold! we had locked ourselves out! We crept into bed in the wee, wee hours of the morning after awaking the whole household, very much embarrassed and more learned in picking or opening night locks.

Milly, Amy, and I also learned to assert ourselves, especially when we were to go on a conducted tour through Rochester. A beautiful Buick drove up—and believe it or not, we went sightseeing in the above said big, beautiful Buick. N. B. We also went sightseeing in the evenings. Ask us! Do we know Rochester!

Harold is very able to take care of himself now, especially when deserted by Kenneth and left to the mercies of the cruel world. He must have succeeded in finding his way about for I saw him this morning looking better than ever.

At that he did better than Amy and I, for, believe it or not, we got lost! As I was remarking how I knew Minneapolis and its suburbs while riding on a street car, the conductor approached us and said, "Are you girls lost, by any chance?"

Imagine our embarrassment when looking out the window we found out that we were entering the car barns! We made an exceedingly speedy exit and called a cab! Thus we learned to travel in Minneapolis.

We also stayed at the Andrews Hotel one night and ahem! accustomed as we were to hotels—we had to have a bellboy lead us out of the entangled web of corridors.

Outside of these few incidents which were detrimental in showing our complete sophistication, we had one "wow of a time!"

Vodvil to Be Given a Week from Tonight

The Brainonian Vodvil, to be presented on Tuesday, Nov. 25 at the high school promises to be of unusual interest and is certainly of an entirely different type from the entertainment of preceding years. Mystery dancing—humor—black outs—straight dancing—all these are part of the program. Music swells in ever increasing volume until it fills the auditorium; the click of castanets and the tap of nimble heels and toes upon the floor charms both the ear and eye, shrieks and groans and flashing lights lend variety to the program. Remember the date—November 25 at 8 o'clock.

LIVE FOWLS FEATURE BIOLOGY BIRD STUDY

Bird study in Miss Laipple's Biology classes has been made very interesting to the students by the study of live and mounted species of birds.

The Biology students were especially interested in the live species of the mallard ducks and love birds which were brought by Julius Knutson and Lois Thabes, respectively.

A mounted specimen of the Great Blue Heron and the Whistling Sivan were contributed to the Biology Department by Richard Rice.

To sum up the study, colored slides of the various summer and winter residents were shown to the students.

Art Students Receive Compliments on Work

Last week Miss True received a letter, representative, complimenting her and her from one of the Binney Smith representatives, praising the art students on their good work done by the local art students which his company displayed at the convention. He also stated that the posters of the art classes received many favorable comments from those attending the convention.

HOME TEAM LOSES TO SUPERIOR AGGREGATION AFTER DESPERATE STRUGGLE

Staging a plucky battle to the final gun, Coach Dammann's Warriors lost their last game of the season to an undefeated Crosby-Ironton team by a 19-0 score. The "Blue and White" boys played the best game of their season and gave C-I a much harder fight than the score indicates. Coach Dammann's men hit the line hard and effectively, playing a smart game of football but were unable to score against the heavier C-I aggregation.

Outstanding in the Brainerd ranks both in attack and defense was Moe, veteran tackle, who played like a demon Tuesday, breaking up many C-I plays before they got started. Captain Garvey, playing at the other tackle, stopped many of the opponents' plays on the line of scrimmage. In fact, the whole team: Franks, Hass, Koeck, Wygle brothers in the line and Foster, Heikkinen, Gabiou, Hogan and Schuety in the backfield, played their season's best game against the C-I aggregation.

The second quarter of this battle was decidedly in favor of the Warriors. Twice in this one period Coach Dammann's men advanced the ball into scoring distance, the first time losing out because of a 15-yard penalty and next by a costly fumble.

C-I made its first touchdown in the first ten minutes of play. After C-I had been held for the first two downs they completed a 25-yard pass to put them well on the way to the Brainerd goal. Then by steady power drives into the line, occasionally with a nice end run, they put the ball over the line for a touchdown. And by running the end, they secured the extra point, making the score 7-0.

The Warriors, not at all disheartened by this first touchdown, came back strong in the second period and pushed the ball down into the C-I territory to about the 15-yard line. Then they were penalized 15 yards for pushing their own man through the line. On the next three plays they regained this yardage but lost the ball before they were able to gain first down. Then C-I, punted out of danger. Again Brainerd pushed the ball into the enemy's territory way up to the 5-yard line, there to fumble and lose the ball. The half ended with the score: Brainerd, 0; C-I, 7.

Warriors Doomed to Defeat

On the first play of the second half Petraborg, big C-I quarterback, dashed around the Brainerd right end and dodged some Brainerd men and then closely pursued by a Warrior tackler, pulled over the line for a 70-yard run and another touchdown, making the score 13 to 0. The attempt for the extra point was fumbled.

Then again in the final period the C-I team pushed down the field with steady, consistent plunging and set the ball over the line for the final touchdown, making the score 19-0. The signals for the extra point took too long so the C-I team lost its chance for the extra point.

As much as the score might indicate that the Warriors were completely outplayed, they put up a valiant fight which made the outcome uncertain until the gun cracked that ended the tilt.

The line-ups were as follows:
 Brainerd—Wygle, Lukens, re; Garvey, Patterson, rt; Koeck, Dahl, rg; Franks, McPherson, Swanson, c; Hass, Wareing, lg; Moe, lt; B. Wygle, Marshall, Vaughn, le; Hogan, lb; Foster, rlb; Gabiou, Templeton, qb; Schuety, Heikkinen, fb.

Crosby-Ironton—Anderson, re; Van Evert, rt; Kukulich, rg; Elmer, c; Irvitch, lg; Dobervich, lt; Stark, le; Greig, rlb; Olsson, lb; Petraborg, qb; Perpitch, fb.

Summary of Season

Twelve Seniors that have added much to the team will graduate this year. These are Hogan, Marshall, Garvey, Guin, Moe, Wareing, Schuety, Patterson, Lukens, Brown, Vierzba, and Stanley. These boys have played real football this year and they'll leave a huge gap in the Warrior team when Coach Dammann calls them together next fall.

The Warriors' schedule this fall has been fairly stiff. They have played seven games, netting:

Wadena, 0; B. H. S., 0.
 Bemidji, 12; B. H. S., 0.
 Staples, 0; B. H. S., 20.
 Aitkin, 7; B. H. S., 0.
 Little Falls, 19; B. H. S., 6.
 Milaca, 0; B. H. S., 45.
 Crosby-Ironton, 19; B. H. S., 0.
 With the total points: B. H. S., 71; opponents, 57.

Crosby-Ironton is district champion this year, being undefeated. The teams in the order in which they stand are: Crosby-Ironton, Aitkin, Little Falls, Brainerd, Wadena and Staples.

TO PUT PROBLEMS OF NEEDY BEFORE PEOPLE

Every Organization in City Urged to Cooperate in Worthwhile Cause

MEETING CALLED FRIDAY

Fund Drive Planned to Give Relief to Unemployed Throughout Winter

Ways and means of organizing a city wide association to aid the jobless and needy of the city of Brainerd will be acted upon Friday evening when representatives of every civic order and welfare group will meet in the city council chambers on call of Harry Creger, chairman of the poor committee.

Mr. Creger announced his plan which will put the problems of the needy before the citizens at last evening's council meeting. He was given permission to use the council chambers for that purpose.

A community fund may be the move decided upon by the new organization which will operate separately from the council but will receive the assistance as far as is possible from the poor committee.

"I have attempted to get in touch with as many organizations in the city as possible. This is a matter which every citizen should take an earnest interest in. If any organization has been forgotten I ask them to appoint a representative to attend the meeting. It is most important that all groups in Brainerd be enlisted in this worthy cause," Mr. Creger stated.

Every church in the city, the Rotary, Lions clubs, Chamber of Commerce, all veterans organizations and auxiliaries, Red Cross, Brainerd Health society, welfare workers as well as many lodges are expected to assist.

The meeting will be called for 8 o'clock. Recognizing the need for immediate action to tide families in unfortunate circumstances over the winter months various plans will be discussed for the raising of funds.

Charitable bazaars, dances, benefit plays, church suppers, and tag days are some of the suggestions which will receive attention.

"While Brainerd is more fortunate than other cities, the demand for relief here is continually mounting. At the present time the city has more requests for aid than funds allowed for such purposes can possibly take care of," Mr. Creger said.

A careful study of each individual case will be made to see that the money, food and clothing contributed is placed in hands where most needed.

Clash Between New and Old in China to be Portrayed

The clash between the new and the old in China today is graphically portrayed in the Chinese play, "The Betrothal of Mai Taung," which is to be given at the First Congregational church Thursday evening, Nov. 20. This three act play was written by a Chinese young lady, Kyung Shien Sung, in collaboration with Vida R. Sutton. The costumes, which are authentic, have already arrived from Chicago. The cast is as follows:

Mr. Wong, a wealthy merchant—Zane Smith.

Mrs. Wong, his wife—Elizabeth Irvine.

Madam Wong, his mother—Louise Clausen.

Two Chinese maids—Ming Yong—Dorothy Kinney; Fu Toi—Doris Geist.

Mai Tsung, Mr. Wong's daughter—Helen Sheets.

Mr. Li, a retired official—George Irvine.

American college girls, friends of Mai Tsung—Lucille, Barbara Zapfe; Mary, Flora Jane Elder; Dorothy, Genevieve Tweet; Margaret, Dorothy Opsahl; Leda, Annetta Erickson.

An American maid—Amy Markham.

Mr. Walter Lee, a Chinese student in America—Drexel Geist.

Two Chinese men servants—John Folsom, Lyle Anderson.

Mr. Hu, a friend of Mr. Li—Julius Knudsen.

The stage manager is Parker Campbell and Kathryn Sheets is handling the tickets. The play is being directed by a committee consisting of Mrs. N. P. Olmsted, Miss Mary Tornstrom, Mrs. Louis Knudsen and Mrs. R. L. Geist. Miss Lillian Britton has made the posters. The high school girls' Glee club will sing several selections under the direction of Miss Cora Rickard. The play is to be repeated Friday evening, Nov. 21, at the Congregational church in Little Falls.

'Every Member Canvass' to be Formulated at St. Paul's Episcopal Church

There will be a special and important parish meeting of the St. Paul's Episcopal church in the church basement on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. At this meeting plans will be formulated for the "Every Member Canvass." Many matters pertaining to the church finances will be taken up and explained.

After the business meeting there will be a social hour and refreshments served by committees from the St. Paul's and St. Mary's guilds and the Men's club of the church.

Every member is expected and urged to present at the meeting will be one of interest to everyone of the parish.

YOUTH DIES FROM APPENDIX RUPTURE

Howard Tollefson, 19, Brainerd Born, Attended Schools Here Dies at Hospital

LEAVES GRIEVED FAMILY

Funeral Rites to be Conducted Thursday Afternoon From Home and Church

Rupture of his appendix caused the death of St. Joseph's hospital at 3:30 p. m. Monday of Howard Tollefson, 19 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Tollefson, 1121 Fourth avenue N. E.

The youth was born in Brainerd and attended schools here.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:15 p. m. Thursday from the home and at 2:30 p. m. from the Zion Lutheran church, Rev. F. C. Rathert officiating. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

Besides his parents he leaves to mourn his loss two brothers, Roy and Earl of Brainerd, and five sisters, Caroline, Margaret, Loraine and Gladys, Brainerd, Mrs. H. Barnes, Cumberland, Iowa.

LESLIE A. GRANT TAKEN BY DEATH

Former Insurance Agent and Clerk in Early City Stores Dies at Home

LIVED HERE 25 YEARS

Two Sons Drown Eight Years Ago in Gull Lake; Rites to be Held Thursday

Leslie A. Grant, former agent of the Prudential Life Insurance Co., who retired a few years ago because of ill health passed away suddenly last evening at 11:55 o'clock at his home, 910 South 6th street. His death was ascribed due to cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Grant was born 54 years ago in Maine. He lived in Aitkin a few years before coming to Brainerd over 25 years ago. During the early years of his residence here he clerked in Brainerd stores.

Eight years ago two of his sons drowned when the boat they were in overturned in Gull Lake.

Surviving besides his widow is one son, Clarence.

Funeral rites will be conducted at 1:30 p. m. Thursday from Whitney's mortuary, Front street, Rev. E. Kufus officiating. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

JURY GETS BUS COLLISION CASE

Brothers Ask $7,500; Widow's Action Against Mining Company Dismissed

Two brothers awaited today the return of a jury deliberating their joint appeal for a total of $7,500 damages as a result of alleged injuries received in a collision between the car they were occupying and a Northland Transportation Co. bus on Front street, April 3, 1930.

The cases of Theodore Engholm and Oscar Engholm vs. the Northland Transportation Co., tried jointly in district court before Judge Graham Torrance went to the jury shortly after noon.

Theodore alleges that the accident damaged his car to the extent of $500 and that his personal injuries amounted to $1,000. Oscar, who brings suit through his father, Carl Engholm, was an occupant of the car and asks $6,000 personal injuries damages.

The case of Florence Caroline Norman vs. the Manganiferous Iron Co. failed to go to the jury yesterday when Judge Torrance granted a motion of the defendant to dismiss the case.

Mrs. Norman asked damages in the extent of $7,500, claiming that impure air in the Louise Mine caused illness which developed into pneumonia and caused the death of her husband, Axel Wm. Norman, a mine employee on June 13, 1930.

TRUCK OWNERS TO MEET IN MINNEAPOLIS

Announcement of the selection of Minneapolis as the scene of the fifth annual convention of the Minnesota Truck Owners' Association was made today by W. E. Lewis, of Brainerd, a director. The convention will be a one day affair, held at the Nicollet Hotel, Saturday, November 22, commencing at 10 o'clock and concluding with a dinner—reservations to the number of 1200 are being arranged.

"This annual event is expected to attract several hundred truck owners from points throughout the state," said Mr. Lewis. Problems confronting owners of trucks will be discussed by a number of speakers of national prominence.

WOMEN VOTERS HOLD REGULAR ELECTION

Mrs. M. W. Richards Named President at Meeting in Home of Mrs. A. M. Opsahl

The League of Women Voters met at the home of Mrs. A. M. Opsahl on Monday afternoon, holding the regular election of officers.

The following officers were elected: President—Mrs. M. W. Richards. Vice President—Mrs. P. C. Pulkkinen.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Dean White.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. W. C. Cobb.

Treasurer—Mrs. A. K. Cohen.

After a discussion of committees with the field secretary, Miss Helen Horv who is doing organization work in this vicinity and making Brainerd her headquarters, the meeting adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. W. C. Cobb the first Thursday in December.

Miss Horv announced that 16 new leagues had been organized this year and were on an active, working basis. This would mean that appeals to legislators would be more effective than heretofore.

After the business meeting, the hostess served dainty refreshments.

STATE LEGISLATION FOR RADIO SOUGHT

Law to be Asked of Legislature; Radio Dealers of Brainerd Meet at Luncheon

Fifteen radio dealers in the city met at a luncheon conference at the Ramo hotel today and discussed trade matters and reduction of interference.

The high light of the meeting was an address by H. H. Cory, secretary of the Northwest Trade Association, also editor and publisher of the Radio Record published at Minneapolis.

Mr. Cory said that a state radio interference law would be requested of the state legislature at its next session.

PRIDE IN CITY APPEAL URGED

Littering of Streets With Paper From Trucks Carrying Waste Can be Avoided

Merchants were urged by the city council last evening to take pride in their city and the appearance of their streets and in the future be more careful in not permitting waste to fall from trucks carrying paper, boxes, and other matter to the city dumping grounds in west Brainerd.

Several complaints were made by aldermen that trucks from city stores in carrying refuse to the dumping grounds were loaded and driven in such a manner through downtown streets that much of the load was lost.

As a protection the council plans an amendment to the ordinance governing the hauling of garbage setting forth certain requirements in loading and the type of container to be used.

To Hold Praise Service of Missionary Society of Presbyterian Church

The annual praise service of the Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will be held in the church Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Schuyler C. Woodhull of Minneapolis, who is synodical president, will be the speaker using for her theme "Missions, a Back Ground for World Peace."

Mrs. A. G. Patterson will lead the devotional with Mrs. Ray Hall as soloist singing "My Task" and "Teach Me to Pray." There will be a thank offering taken to be used for the mission work sponsored by the women of the church.

After the program a social time will be held in the lower rooms of the church to which a cordial invitation is extended to all friends.

SERVICE IMPAIRED BY STORM RESTORED

A wind and sleet storm which struck western Minnesota and eastern North Dakota Sunday morning resulted in damage to the extent of approximately $100,000 to plant and long distance lines of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

During the height of the storm, Fargo was entirely isolated insofar as telephone service was concerned. Approximately 1,000 telephone poles in North Dakota and 500 in Minnesota were down. Not only were poles toppled over by the wind and heavy coating of sleet forming on the wires but most of the open wire leads were tangled up and there were many wire breaks which may take several days to repair. Serious damage was also done to local service in Fargo, Crookston, Grand Forks, Hawley, Detroit Lakes and other towns. The majority of the long distance lines have already been restored to service.

The storm area extended from Appleton north to Grand Forks on both sides of the Red river for a distance of 50 miles.

Fourteen crews from different parts of the state were dispatched to the storm area to repair the damage, while nine other crews were sent to Fargo to aid in restoring service in North Dakota.

Every effort was exerted by the Telephone Company to restore service as quickly as possible.

SEAL DRIVE READY TO START IN COUNTY

Campaign Leaders to Take Active Charge in Move to Lessen Tuberculosis

Active preparations are now underway for the county-wide sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals, which will open officially on Thanksgiving day.

In active charge of the campaign are the following: E. R. Burns, Crosby, director of the campaign and vice-president of the Crow Wing County Public Health Association; and local managers: Brainerd, Mrs. Norma Parker; Crosby and Ironton, Julia A. Sharp and E. R. Burns; Deerwood: Supt. L. A. Cyrus; Pequot, Supt. B. F. Hall.

To increase the record of Crow Wing county, which ranked 24th among the counties of the state with over 15,000 population in its support of the tuberculosis campaign last year is the aim of local workers.

That the 1930 Christmas Seal, which again revives the Santa Claus design, will be the most popular in years is predicted by local workers. It is in cheery holiday colors and depicts Santa Claus carrying a Christmas tree, laden with gifts of health, over his shoulder. The double-barred red cross international insignia of the fight against tuberculosis and the greeting "Merry Christmas—Health to All" appear on the seal.

Supplies are already in the hands of the workers and include in addition to the seals, health bonds of various denominations for clubs and the larger individual contributors, posters, and other educational material.

Various methods will be used in the communities of the county to distribute the seals, including the mail and school sale, personal solicitation, and booths. Valuable health promotion material is offered to the schools in proportion to their efforts, and includes first aid kits, individual towel cabinets, individual cup dispensers, health balls and bats, thermometers, and health reference books.

Workers in the campaign are all volunteers, and are generously devoting much time and energy to make it a success. In order to correct any confusion in the minds of local people, the committee again calls attention to the fact that the Christmas Seals and Red Cross activities are entirely separate, and that there has been no connection between the two organizations since 1918.

Recognizing the need for immediate action to tide families in unfortunate circumstances over the winter months various plans will be discussed for the raising of funds.

Charitable bazaars, dances, benefit plays, church suppers, and tag days are some of the suggestions which will receive attention.

"While Brainerd is more fortunate than other cities, the demand for relief here is continually mounting. At the present time the city has more requests for aid than funds allowed for such purposes can possibly take care of," Mr. Greger said.

A careful study of each individual case will be made to see that the money, food and clothing contributed is placed in hands where most needed.

Clash Between New and Old in China to be Portrayed

The clash between the new and the old in China today is graphically portrayed in the Chinese play, "The Betrothal of Mai Tsung," which is to be given at the First Congregational church Thursday evening, Nov. 20. This three act play was written by a Chinese young lady, Kyung Shien Sung, in collaboration with Vida R. Sutton. The costumes, which are authentic, have already arrived from Chicago. The cast is as follows:

Mr. Wong, a wealthy merchant—Zane Smith

Mrs. Wong, his wife—Elizabeth Irvine

Madam Wong, his mother—Louise Clausen

Two Chinese maids—Ming Yong—Dorothy Kinney; Fu Toi—Doris Geist

Mai Tsung, Mr. Wong's daughter—Helen Sheets

Mr. Li, a retired official—George Irvine

American college girls, friends of Mai Tsung—Lucille, Barbara Zapffe; Mary, Flora Jane Elder; Dorothy, Genevieve Sweet; Margaret, Dorothy Opsahl; Leda, Annetta Erickson

An American maid—Amy Markham

Mr. Walter Lee, a Chinese student in America—Drexel Geist

Two Chinese men servants—John Folsom, Lyle Anderson

Mr. Hu, a friend of Mr. Li—Julius Knudsen

The stage manager is Parker Campbell and Kathryn Sheets is handling the tickets. The play is being directed by a committee consisting of Mrs. N. P. Olmsted, Miss Mary Tornstrom, Mrs. Louis Knudsen and Mrs. R. L. Geist. Miss Lillian Britton has made the posters. The high school girls' Glee club will sing several selections under the direction of Miss Cora Rickard. The play is to be repeated Friday evening, Nov. 21, at the Congregational church in Little Falls.

'Every Member Canvass' to be Formulated at St. Paul's Episcopal Church

There will be a special and important parish meeting of the St. Paul's Episcopal church in the church basement on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. At this meeting plans will be formulated for the "Every Member Canvass." Many matters pertaining to the church finances will be taken up and explained.

After the business meeting there will be a social hour and refreshments served by committees from the St. Paul's and St. Mary's guilds and the Men's club of the church.

Every member is expected and urged to present at the meeting will be one of interest to everyone of the parish.

FATHER ASKS COURT CHARGE BE DROPPED

Not wanting the charge pressed, Cyril Bourassa, 415 Second street N., who complained yesterday to city authorities that Joe Schelhorn struck his daughter, Viola, on the left arm, appeared in municipal court this morning and asked that his complaint be dropped.

The case was dismissed by Judge J. H. Warner.

TURN DOWN BULK STATION REQUEST

Brainerd Oil Co. Not Permitted to Build Bulk Station at 9th and Laurel

FIRE HAZARD SEEN

Committee to be Named to Draft Ordinances Covering Storage of Flammables

Looking to the safety of residents and particularly a church less than a block away, the council last evening turned down the application of the Brainerd Oil Company to construct a bulk station at the corner of 9th and Laurel streets.

The proposed bulk station was in the city fire limits and was thereby considered a hazard.

While the city council rejected the bulk station request it permitted the company to construct and operate a filling station there with two tanks not to exceed 1,000 gallons capacity each.

The Lampert Lumber Co. was granted permission to move a building from the east side of 9th street to the west side. The building will be used for the storage of cement.

The fire, light and water committee was instructed to take up with the water and light board the request for an arc light at the east end of Front street near the stockyards.

President V. E. Quamstrom was instructed to appoint a committee to work with the fire inspector and city attorney to draft three ordinances governing the storage of flammable liquids, the installation of oil burners and garage regulations.

STATE RURAL CREDIT AIDS UNEMPLOYED

Doing Much Also to Improve Run Down Farms; Loans Total Millions

The State Department of Rural Credit is doing its share in relieving the unemployment situation in the state as well as improving the appearance of farms that formerly were run down.

On his visit to Brainerd Monday H. H. Flowers, secretary of the State Department of Rural Credit stated that applications for loans in the state totalled a million dollars monthly, one third of this being provided for.

The department in the handling of the farms is meeting with success. Sixteen hundred farms are at present being operated by the department on a scientific basis.

In the six counties under the jurisdiction of J. H. Krekelberg, Brainerd district representative, 160 farms are being operated under the supervision of the department. New construction work, 20 buildings having already been built, is providing employment for 100 men. Thousands of men are similarly being employed throughout the state.

"Conditions are studied and the farms are operated to the line best suited. We are urging stock raising in many instances. Minnesota has always been an outstanding agricultural state and the Department of Rural Credit is taking a leading part in maintaining that standard. It is doing greater work towards advertising the agricultural industry than any other agency," Mr. Flowers said.

Materials used in remodeling farm buildings are purchased locally as far as is possible, the official said. New buildings are being constructed in every county.

After the farms are reconditioned they are sold or turned over to responsible parties and operated on a rental basis. In instances, former owners have benefitted to the extent that where the farmer failed previously he is now able through the educational methods offered by the department to put the farm on a paying basis and buy it back again.

YOUTH DIES FROM APPENDIX RUPTURE

Howard Tollefson, 19, Brainerd Born, Attended Schools Here Dies at Hospital

LEAVES GRIEVED FAMILY

Funeral Rites to be Conducted Thursday Afternoon From Home and Church

Rupture of his appendix caused the death at the St. Joseph's hospital at 3:30 p. m. Monday of Howard Tollefson, 19 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Tollefson, 1121 Fourth avenue N. E.

The youth was born in Brainerd and attended schools here.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:15 p. m. Thursday from the home and at 2:30 p. m. from the Zion Lutheran church, Rev. F. C. Rathert officiating. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

Besides his parents he leaves to mourn his loss two brothers, Roy and Earl of Brainerd, and five sisters, Caroline, Margaret, Lorraine and Gladys, Brainerd, Mrs. H. Barnes, Cumberland, Iowa.

LESLIE A. GRANT TAKEN BY DEATH

Former Insurance Agent and Clerk in Early City Stores Dies at Home

LIVED HERE 25 YEARS

Two Sons Drown Eight Years Ago in Gull Lake; Rites to be Held Thursday

Leslie A. Grant, former agent of the Prudential Life Insurance Co., who retired a few years ago because of ill health passed away suddenly last evening at 11:55 o'clock at his home, 910 South 6th street. His death was ascribed due to cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Grant was born 54 years ago in Maine. He lived in Aitkin a few years before coming to Brainerd over 25 years ago. During the early years of his residence here he clerked in Brainerd stores.

Eight years ago two of his sons drowned when the boat they were in overturned in Gull Lake.

Surviving besides his widow is one son, Clarence.

Funeral rites will be conducted at 1:30 p. m. Thursday from Whitney's mortuary, Front street, Rev. P. Kufus officiating. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

JURY GETS BUS COLLISION CASE

Brothers Ask $7,500; Widow's Action Against Mining Company Dismissed

Two brothers awaited today the return of a jury deliberating their joint appeal for a total of $7,500 damages as a result of alleged injuries received in a collision between the car they were occupying and a Northland Transportation Co. bus on Front street, April 3, 1930.

The cases of Theodore Engholm and Oscar Engholm vs. the Northland Transportation Co., tried jointly in district court before Judge Graham Torrance went to the jury shortly after noon.

Theodore alleges that the accident damaged his car to the extent of $500 and that his personal injuries amounted to $1,000. Oscar, who brings suit through his father, Carl Engholm, was an occupant of the car and asks $6,000 personal injuries damages.

The case of Florence Caroline Norman vs. the Manganiferous Iron Co. failed to go to the jury yesterday when Judge Torrance granted a motion of the defendant to dismiss the case.

Mrs. Norman asked damages in the extent of $7,500, claiming that impure air in the Louise Mine caused illness which developed into pneumonia and caused the death of her husband, Axel Wm. Norman, a mine employee on June 13, 1930.

Materials used in remodeling farm buildings are purchased locally as far as is possible, the official said. New buildings are being constructed in every county.

TRUCK OWNERS TO MEET IN MINNEAPOLIS

Announcement of the selection of Minneapolis as the scene of the fifth annual convention of the Minnesota Truck Owners' Association was made today by W. E. Lewis, of Brainerd, a director. The convention will be a one day affair, held at the Nicolet Hotel, Saturday, November 22, commencing at 10 o'clock and concluding with a dinner—reservations to the number of 1200 are being arranged.

"This annual event is expected to attract several hundred truck owners from points throughout the state," said Mr. Lewis. Problems confronting owners of trucks will be discussed by a number of speakers of national prominence.

WOMEN VOTERS HOLD REGULAR ELECTION

Mrs. M. W. Richards Named President at Meeting in Home of Mrs. A. M. Opsahl

The League of Women Voters met at the home of Mrs. A. M. Opsahl on Monday afternoon, holding the regular election of officers.

The following officers were elected: President—Mrs. M. W. Richards. Vice President—Mrs. P. C. Pulkrtbek.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Dean White. Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. W. C. Cobb.

Treasurer—Mrs. A. K. Cohen. After a discussion of committees with the field secretary, Miss Helen Horr who is doing organization work in this vicinity and making Brainerd her headquarters, the meeting adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. W. C. Cobb the first Thursday in December.

Miss Horr announced that 16 new leagues had been organized this year and were on an active working basis. This would mean that appeals to legislators would be more effective than heretofore.

After the business meeting, the hostess served dainty refreshments.

STATE LEGISLATION FOR RADIO SOUGHT

Law to be Asked of Legislature; Radio Dealers of Brainerd Meet at Luncheon

Fifteen radio dealers in the city met at a luncheon conference at the Ramsford hotel today and discussed trade matters and reduction of interference. The high light of the meeting was an address by H. H. Cory, secretary of the Northwest Trade Association, also editor and publisher of the Radio Record published at Minneapolis.

Mr. Cory said that a state radio interference law would be requested of the state legislature at its next session.

PRIDE IN CITY APPEAL URGED

Littering of Streets With Paper From Trucks Carrying Waste Can be Avoided

Merchants were urged by the city council last evening to take pride in their city and the appearance of their streets and in the future be more careful in not permitting waste to fall from trucks carrying paper, boxes and other matter to the city dumping grounds in west Brainerd.

Several complaints were made by aldermen that trucks from city stores in carrying refuse to the dumping grounds were loaded and driven in such a manner through downtown streets that much of the load was lost.

As a protection the council plans an amendment to the ordinance governing the hauling of garbage setting forth certain requirements in loading and the type of container to be used.

SERVICE IMPAIRED BY STORM RESTORED

A wind and sleet storm which struck western Minnesota and eastern North Dakota Sunday morning resulted in damage to the extent of approximately $100,000 to plant and long distance lines of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

During the height of the storm, Fargo was entirely isolated insofar as telephone service was concerned. Approximately 1,000 telephone poles in North Dakota and 500 in Minnesota were down. Not only were poles toppled over by the wind and heavy coating of sleet forming on the wires but most of the open wire leads were tangled up and there are many wire breaks which may take several days to repair. Serious damage was also done to local service in Fargo, Crookston, Grand Forks, Hawley, Detroit Lakes and other towns. The majority of the long distance lines have already been restored to service.

The storm area extended from Appleton north to Grand Forks on both sides of the Red river for a distance of 50 miles.

Fourteen crews from different parts of the state were dispatched to the storm area to repair the damage, while nine other crews were sent to Fargo to aid in restoring service in North Dakota.

Every effort was exerted by the Telephone Company to restore service as quickly as possible.

SEAL DRIVE READY TO START IN COUNTY

Campaign Leaders to Take Active Charge in Move to Lessen Tuberculosis

Active preparations are now underway for the county-wide sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals, which will open officially on Thanksgiving day.

In active charge of the campaign are the following: E. R. Burns, Crosby, director of the campaign and vice-president of the Crow Wing County Public Health Association; and local managers: Brainerd, Mrs. Norma Parker; Crosby and Ironton, Julia A. Sharp and E. R. Burns; Deerwood, Supt. L. A. Cyrus; Pequot, Supt. B. F. Hall.

To increase the record of Crow Wing county, which ranked 24th among the counties of the state with over 15,000 population in its support of the tuberculosis campaign last year is the aim of local workers.

That the 1930 Christmas Seal, which again revives the Santa Claus design, will be the most popular in years is predicted by local workers. It is in cheery holiday colors and depicts Santa Claus carrying a Christmas tree, laden with gifts of health, over his shoulder. The double-barred red cross international insignia of the fight against tuberculosis and the greeting "Merry Christmas—Health to All" appear on the seal.

Supplies are already in the hands of the workers and include in addition to the seals, health bonds of various denominations for clubs and the larger individual contributors, posters, and other educational material.

Various methods will be used in the

"Stop Booth an' Beat Yale!"

By HARDIN BURNLEY

FOOTBALL'S most traditional game, Yale vs. Harvard, will pack the Bowl at New Haven, Conn., this Saturday, when two first-class, if not great teams meet in a tilt that is a toss-up from any speculative angle. Last year the Crimson beat the Blue, 10-7, the Devens-Mays-Wood passing combination prevailing. Albie Booth was throttled, but who can forget that only the clutching hand of a Ticknor—barely gripping the neck of the Eli midget's jersey—prevented a touchdown run from kick-off that might have won the game for the Bulldog?

This year, Booth with a much improved Yale eleven, will tackle Harvard, featuring again most of its Crimson stars of 1929. Vic Harding, who was so badly hurt in that Bulldog scramble last season that surgeons had to remove his spleen, will again play one of the Harvard ends ready to snag those long passes from Wood & Co. and watch Booth. If Devens and Mays regain good physical condition, they're sure to harry Old Eli with their laterals and split tackle dashes just as they did last November. Barry Wood will still be Harvard's most closely watched back. However, Jack Crickard, a newcomer, may do much of the ball carrying against Yale.

And what a battle of lines it will be with the Crimson "Big Ben" Ticknor, "Buster" Talbot, "Pie" Trainer et al in melee with "Pay" Vincent, Freddie Looser, Trux Hare, "Lay-On-Em" Linehan, et al.

Reports persist that this will mark Arnold Horween's last game as Harvard's coach and collateral rumors insist that his special assistant, Jesse Hawley, former Dartmouth grid prexy, will succeed him. Horween has done much to build up a potent machine at Cambridge this year. Crimson's prospect were rosy indeed but successive defeats by Army (6-0) and Dartmouth (7-2) . . . followed by that harrowing 13-13 William and Mary check . . . were disappointing indeed. However, certain real experts still insist that this is "the best Harvard team in years" and that "they'll prove that against Yale."

Ardent admirers of Eddie Casey, one of Harvard's mammoth stars of a little more than a decade ago and now its backfield coach, hoped that he might succeed to Horween's post but, at this writing, it looks as though the more experienced and masterly Hawley will get that call, despite vigorous denials.

Iodine's Great Value

The finest fleeces in the world are grown in the Orkneys, where the sheep feed on seaweeds. Salt derived from sea water by evaporation contains much iodine, and its introduction into general use for the table would be a great benefit to the human race. It would also be most beneficial for farm animals. Unfortunately, it is expensive; but it could be made comparatively cheap if production were undertaken on a large scale at suitable manufacturing plants along the coast.—Exchange.

"Stop Booth an' Beat Yale!"

By HARDIN BURNLEY

FOOTBALL'S most traditional game, Yale vs. Harvard, will pack the Bowl at New Haven, Conn., this Saturday, when two first-class, if not great teams meet in a tilt that is a toss-up from any speculative angle. Last year the Crimson beat the Blue, 10-7, the Devens-Mays-Wood passing combination prevailing. Albie Booth was throttled, but who can forget that only the clutching hand of a Ticknor—barely gripping the neck of the Eli midget's jersey—prevented a touchdown run from kick-off that might have won the game for the Bulldog?

This year, Booth with a much improved Yale eleven, will tackle Harvard, featuring again most of its Crimson stars of 1929. Vic Harding, who was so badly hurt in that Bulldog scramble last season that surgeons had to remove his spleen, will again play one of the Harvard ends ready to snag those long passes from Wood & Co. and watch Booth. If Devens and Mays regain good physical condition, they're sure to harry Old Eli with their laterals and split tackle dashes just as they did last November. Barry Wood will still be Harvard's most closely watched back. However, Jack Crickard, a newcomer, may do much of the ball carrying against Yale.

And what a battle of lines it will be with the Crimson "Big Ben" Ticknor, "Buster" Talbot, "Fay" Trainer et al in melees with "Fay" Vincent, Freddie Loeser, Trux Hare, "Lay-On-Em" Linehan, et al.

Reports persist that this will mark Arnold Horween's last game as Harvard's coach and collateral rumors insist that his special assistant, Jesse Hawley, former Dartmouth grid proxy, will succeed him. Horween has done much to build up a potent machine at Cambridge this year. Crimson's prospect were rosy indeed but successive defeats by Army (6-0) and Dartmouth (7-2) . . . followed by that harrowing 13-13 William and Mary check . . . were disappointing indeed. However, certain real experts still insist that this is "the best Harvard team in years" and that "they'll prove that against Yale."

Ardent admirers of Eddie Casey, one of Harvard's mammoth stars of a little more than a decade ago and now its backfield coach, hoped that he might succeed to Horween's post but, at this writing, it looks as though the more experienced and masterly Hawley will get that call, despite vigorous denials.

Practical

John's parents had been discussing the merits of goat milk and the very practical had said: "I think we better buy a Billy goat. I could use him to haul the groceries in the daytime and dad could milk him after supper."

Sure Way to Stop Night Coughs

Famous Prescription Brings Almost Instant Relief

Night coughs, or coughs caused by a cold or irritated throat, can now be stopped within 15 minutes by a doctor's prescription called Thoxine which works on an entirely different principle from ordinary medicines. It has a quick double action, it relieves the irritation and goes direct to the internal cause.

Thoxine contains no harmful drugs, is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Guaranteed to give better and quicker relief for coughs or sore throats than anything you have ever tried or you can have your money back. 35c, 60c and $1.00 bottles. Sold by Skauge Drug Co. and all other good drug stores.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

MAKE THIS FROCK AND BERET FOR ABOUT $4.64

The "Coachman Silhouette" which Chanel has used so successfully for her new sports coats was the inspiration for this tailored frock, with its wide revers, double-breasted treatment and flared sectional skirt. A flattering little beret to be made in matching or contrasting fabric is included with the pattern. Size 16 requires: 2½ yards 54-inch tweed at $1.30 $3.74 Findings .45 Pictorial Pattern .45 Totaling about .46 Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 5464, Sizes 14 to 46, 45 cents.

Today's Great Value

The finest fleeces in the world are grown in the Orkneys, where the sheep feed on seaweeds. Salt derived from sea water by evaporation contains much iodine, and its introduction into general use for the table would be a great benefit to the human race. It would also be most beneficial for farm animals. Unfortunately, it is expensive; but it could be made comparatively cheap if production were undertaken on a large scale at suitable manufacturing plants along the coast.—Exchange.
